ATTACK ON THE WATER WORKS NOT THREATENED.

Funston Sees No Indication of Movement in Preparation.

Appeal in Behalf of Five South American Empires Under Consideration.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Members of the cabinet, after a prolonged conference with President Wilson today on the Mexican situation, declared that the President maintains confidence that mediation will succeed and serious consequences in Mexico will be averted.

Most of the discussion in the meeting, it is said, related to mediation and the views to be presented on behalf of this government by Justice Lamar and Frederick Lehmann when the South American envoys seek the views of the United States and Huerta representatives at the conference.

Just before the cabinet met a message was received from General Funston, at Vera Cruz, in which the American commander declared that no attention should be paid to "alarmist reports" that Mexican forces were threatening to attack the Vera Cruz waterworks. There was no indication of movement of Mexican troops in preparation for such attack, the message said.

"There have been rumors," General Funston added, "that an attack was threatened. These have been due to remarks attributed to General Maas. The waterworks cannot be taken from us by force. If the pipe line should be cut it could be repaired in a few hours."

General Funston said that 200 sacks of American mail, destined for Mexico City and delivered at the break in the railroad, still lay on the tracks in possession of the Mexican outposts. He had no news of Private Parks, who rode into the Mexican lines and has not returned.

Among matters the President and cabinet had under consideration was the appeal from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to General Funston on behalf of five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz, for "sniping" American soldiers from a Norwegian steamer. Three Brazilians are among the prisoners, and the appeal, coming from a diplomatic representative of one of the mediating nations, has presented a delicate problem for decision. Formal representations in behalf of the prisoners have been made at the State Department by the Brazilian ambassador and the Chilian and Argentine ministers.

The situation at Tampico is reported to have been discussed. Complications which might arise over the foreign-owned oil properties there, should destruction result from conflict between rebel and Federal forces, have been under consideration for some time. Lack of definite information as to the progress of the battle at Tampico is causing members considerable concern.

The report from London that Great Britain had ordered the Bristol, a speedy cruiser, to proceed to Tampico is not regarded as significant. As the Bristol is of light draught it is believed she may be used to operate in the Panuco river, along which the British oil properties are located.

Secretary Bryan announced after the meeting that the representations made to this government by the mediators in behalf of the South Amer-

"BALD JACK" ROSE STAR WITNESS AT THE TRIAL.

Reiterates Story of Murder As Previously Told.

Shapiro, Chauffeur, Relates His Experience With the Gun Men.

NEW YORK, May 12.—"Bald Jack" Rose, star witness at the first trial of Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, appeared in that role again today. He calmly told of the part he played in the events leading up to the gambler's death. Substantially it was the same story he told at the first trial. He spoke in a low tone and at times gazed directly at the defendant. Briefly Rose recited how Becker and Rosenthal had entered into partnership in a gambling establishment, how they quarrelled, how exposure for Becker as a police lieutenant was imminent, and how Rosenthal's death was plotted.

When the trial was resumed District Attorney Charles S. Whitman called Dr. Dennis Taylor to the stand as the last of several witnesses to establish the death of Rosenthal. Dr. Taylor, at the time of the murder, was an ambulance surgeon and his testimony was necessary, because it was he who pronounced the gambler dead. Following Dr. Taylor, the district attorney called Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the car in which the gun men are said to have escaped from the scene of the murder.

The cross-examination of witnesses for the prosecution by Martin T. Manton seemed to show the line the defense will follow. It was evident that Becker's new counsel intends to run close to the old defense at the first trial and try to show that the murder of Rosenthal was the result of a gamblers' fued, without the guiding hand of the defendant. The inference is that the blame for the actual shooting, as before, will be placed on "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, instead of the four gunmen, who have already been executed for wielding the revolvers.

Shapiro, the chauffeur, told of receiving a call at his stand in front of the Cafe Boulevard late at night July 13. He then went to Tom Sharkey's saloon, where he picked

NO HOSTILITIES BY AMERICANS EXPECTED.

Federals Not Likely to Advance Lines During Conference.

Funston and Porter Discuss Alleged Breaking of Armistice.

VERA CRUZ, May 12.—While the Mexican commissioners are en route to attend the peace conference at Niagara Falls, Canada, during the sessions of the conference there will be no inauguration of hostilities by the American forces here, and there is no reason to believe that the Mexican Federals will advance their lines.

The recent charge by General Blanquet that the Americans were breaking the armistice caused General Funston to confer with his legal adviser, Colonel Porter. General Funston and Colonel Porter agreed that while actually no armistice or truce, either implying hostilities, which none but President Huerta admits exists, there is a tacit understanding that neither side will inaugurate hostilities. So far as this agreement affects the movement of troops within their own lines, General Funston and Colonel Porter declare that both the Mexicans and American forces had this right. It is expected that President Huerta will move some of the Mexican troops towards the coast, and behind the American lines such minor changes of position as are required will continue to be made. The interpretation placed upon the agreement by General Funston and Colonel Porter would permit of unlimited strengthening of both the Mexican and American forces so long as no advance was made.

Slight alterations were made today in the position of the American forces, to which the Mexican authorities might find objection, but which are regarded by General Funston and Colonel Porter as justified beyond any question of dispute. At the Tejar water works station there was a detached outpost. Between this post and the main body of troops there were only connecting posts, but on account of the absolute necessity of protecting the water supply of Vera Cruz patrols were ordered to be placed all along the pipe line. The water supply is as plentiful as ever, but the increasing population due to the influx of refugees, has made its conservation one of the most important matters to be considered by General Funston.

Several schools re-opened today in addition to those which were re-established yesterday, and the department of health and police continued their work of restoring the city to normal conditions. The work of the native officers has been quite satisfactory, according to Captain Ramford, head of the police department. Thus far the native officers have escaped the disapproval of their fellow countrymen except in a few instances where they were made the victims of jeers and taunts. When such instances occurred the prompt arrest of the offenders has resulted in a display of more respect for the work of the native police by Mexicans generally.

Americans here, who own property in various parts of Mexico, report that from information received by them from refugees and other sources a large number of plantations west and south of Vera Cruz, abandoned by the owners, have been looted.

TWENTY-EIGHT DEATHS.

Board of Health Reports Four Less Than for April of Last Year

There were 28 deaths in Newport in April according to the monthly report of the Board of Health. This is four less than in the same month last year and the total for four months in 1914 is 11[illegible] as on 141 in the corresponding period of 1913. The 28 deaths are equivalent to an annual rate of 12.37 in each 1000 inhabitants which is below the average for the past year.

The deaths were from 18 different causes, the largest number being five from organic diseases of the heart. There were three each from pneumonia and Bright's disease, two each from tuberculosis of the lungs and cerebral hemorrhage, and one each from whooping cough, tuberculous meningitis, cancer and other malignant tumors of the female genital organs, other tumors, diabetes, acute endocarditis, diseases of the larynx, broncho pneumonia, diarrhoea, other diseases of the mouth and annexa, acute nephritis, congenital malformation and senility or old age.

Of the 28 decedents 13 were males and 15 females. 25 were white and 3 colored. 10 were single, 8 married and 10 widowed.

The oldest was 91 years 10 months and 12 days and the average age 50 years and 2[illegible] days. The deaths according to age were as follows: Under one month 2, one month and under one year 2, one year and under five years 1, twenty years and under forty 3, forty years and under sixty 7, sixty years and under eighty, 10, over eighty years 3.

Eight of the decedents were born in Newport, 1 in other parts of Rhode Island, 8 in other states and 11 in other countries.

The deaths occurred in the various parts of the city as follows: First ward 3, Second 4, Third 7, Fourth 3, Fifth 8, Newport Hospital 2.

Six bodies were brought to the city for burial and the interments (including one premature birth) were in the various cemeteries as follows: Island 8, St Mary's 1, Old 1, Braman 10, City 1, removed from the city 10.

Twenty two cases of contagious diseases were reported during the month—Diphtheria 6, scarlet fever 4, pulmonary tuberculosis 4, measles 8.

A FEMALE "RAFFLES."

"In the Bishop's Carriage" to Have First Stage Production in This City

The first [illegible] stage production in this city of the celebrated play "In the Bishop's Carriage" to be given at the Opera House tonight and continued [illegible] this week by the Malley-Denison [illegible]

[illegible] there is an exception [illegible] demand for seats. This is [illegible] the fact that the play is known [illegible] as one of the most interesting dramas of modern times and in the hands of the local company is assured [illegible] presentation. The play is a dramatization of Miriam Michelson's sensational novel of the same name whose circulation has been tremendous. "In the Bishop's Carriage" calls for a big production and its stage settings the management promises will be elaborate and according to the requirement.

Miss Shirley will play the part of Nance Olden, [illegible] of female Raffles, while the character of William Latimer will be in the hands of Mr [illegible]. Neil Pratt will be the Tom Dorgan and Edwin Ramsey will fill [illegible] Houston Richards and the bishop will be played by Richard Clark. The cast will also include Mollie Calvert, Sophie Allen, James Moore, Janette Cass, Fred Ormsby, Frank Bennett and several who will be seen in the smaller parts.

POLICE NOTES

The police report for Sunday was not [illegible]. Two well known clam diggers were in the police net Saturday night. One came from James[illegible] and on promising to go back [illegible] and [illegible] to work the police let him [illegible]. There was a complaint pending against the Newport digger and he was [illegible] of $160. One [illegible] support was placed on probation.

Saturday [illegible] money-lending [illegible] reported losing $70 in [illegible] Thames Street that night. [illegible] that his [illegible] taken from him [illegible] reported finding the money [illegible] the pocket [illegible]. On [illegible] count he had $[illegible] [illegible] his friends placed [illegible] him.

WORK BEGUN ON BROADWAY ROADBED

The highway department began this morning to expend the appropriation for the construction of Broadway [illegible] commissioner [illegible]. But [illegible] with a plow gang were on the scene and the start was made on the [illegible] side between Bay View and Powel avenues where there has never been a bottom to the road and each year it has been little better than a quagmire. It is to be dug out and a Telford bottom put in, as a beginning for the new sheet paving surface.

IMPROVEMENTS IN COTTAGE SECTION

Sunken Garden and Enlarged Terrace to Further Beautify the Berwind Estate.

Mrs Glyn's Grounds Added to and Belmont Japanese Tea House Nearly Finished.

One of the biggest improvements in the cottage section now underway is hidden behind the stone walls of the E J Berwind estate. On the west end of the big lawn, toward Spring street, is a bush and tree-marked walk extending from the garage on the north to the Dixon Street gate on the south. At either end is a fountain. About in the centre is a terrace with marble wall and a fountain. This terrace is about 200 feet long and makes now a handsome showing when viewed from the east end of the ground. This effect is to be greatly increased by the new work which is being built to the west of the terrace and between it and the drive. This will consist of two tea houses one at either end with a fourth fountain between and a sunken garden to the west to balance the terrace effect. This work will be 200 feet in length and will extend well back to the drive which runs around the grounds. At the front will be at either corner a tea house 40 feet square at the base and tapering to 20 above and rising 20 or more feet above the terrace walk. Steps from these will lead at the centre to a fountain and from this level still other steps will lead to the sunken garden which can also be reached by steps from the walk. The whole ought to make a handsome appearance when viewed from the terraced of the big Berwind villa. The material will be white marble to correspond with the other stone work and the construction is by Contractor Alexander Booth.

To make way for the new structure and garden it was necessary to move a dozen large trees to other places on the ground and to tear up the pretty stone bridge and destroy the pond which occupied much of the space to be given to the sunken garden.

This work on the grounds at this point is not all which has called for attention from Head Gardener Bruce Butterton this spring. Immediately after the tearing down of the Best cottage men were set at work to fill in the cellar and clear the grounds to make a lawn of the lot. The stable of the Stockton cottage was removed, thus clearing the way from Perry street to Bellevue court for the Stockton cottage which for many years was so hemmed in by buildings and trees that it almost escaped notice. The space formerly occupied by the Best cottage has been partially filled by the removal of several large trees, which look as natural as if they always grew there. A high hedge has been planted about the rear of the Stockton cottage and the whole ground has been enclosed with a hedge so that there is now a continuous line of hedge from Bowery street to Bellevue court.

Mr T P Keeher who owns the estate next west on Perry street is also to plant a hedge in front of his place so that the hedge effect will extend well down Perry street.

The stable of the Best property on Perry street has been changed into a double garage to serve the Stockton cottage and the Tyler cottage both owned by Mr Berwind. This is set off from the Best lot by a cut off hedge and seems a different estate.

One needs to look to see the great change thus made to this corner. The Stockton cottage has been brought out into view and put in the middle of good-sized grounds with plenty of trees on every side and when the hedge and grass are well started things will look as though they had always been thus. It simply shows what work and skill can accomplish.

At the Glyn place on Bellevue avenue and Gordon street, like the Wee Bush estate the removal of the house and stable, the planting of a hedge and the grading of the grounds have changed the appearance of things materially and greatly added to the size of the grounds of Mrs Glyn. She has had a small stone addition built on the south of her house. The foundation walls of Wee Bush still stand and apparently are left for some reason the ground having been graded up to them.

The [illegible] green tiles have been placed on Mrs Belmont's Japanese tea house on the Cliffs and it began to look as if the work was finished. Instead she has begun work which has to do with the tea house but in a different line. She has given orders to raise the sea wall to the east of the tunnel to bring the entire surface up to that of the ground where the steps to the tea house take off. This means the raising of the wall a considerable distance and the filling in of a big trench. When the work is done however there will be considerable lawn about the tea house steps. Perhaps Mrs Belmont knows that all the land will be needed for there is where the talks take place.

Carvers have begun work on the window frames of the Widener cottage. Each window frame is to have some carving and as there are many of them this means a big job.

FLEET MAY RETURN.

Base in Narragansett Bay Depends on Withdrawal from Mexico.

Congressman O'Shaunessy is deeply interested in having the Atlantic fleet at Newport this summer and in answer to a personal call at the Navy Department last week has received the following letter from the Secretary of the Navy:

"Navy Department, Washington May [illegible]

My dear Mr O'Shaunessy: Referring to your personal call at the Department requesting information as to the future movements of the fleet, I [illegible] to inform you it is probable that if the situation in Mexican waters permits the withdrawal of the fleet it will base on Narragansett Bay during the coming summer as in the past.

Sincerely yours
Josephus Daniels."

BASE BALL OF MANY VARIETIES.

All-Fall Rivers Defeat the Trojans in Eleven-Inning Contest, 5 to 3.

Newports Beat Training Station Team. St. George's Nine Outplays Brown Freshmen.

Base ball of many varieties was furnished at Wellington park Sunday afternoon, when the All-Fall River nine defeated the Trojans in an 11-inning contest by a score of 5-3, securing the winning runs without the slightest semblance of a hit. It was the worst fielding game the Trojans have played in years no less than 10 errors being chalked against them, every member of the team offending except West. After a flying start the Trojans could do nothing in the way of scoring more runs but showed how to give the other team runs by booting balls and throwing wild at inopportune moments. Of the five runs garnered by the All-Fall River aggregation four same as a result of gifts. It did not seem possible that the Massachusetts team could win, so fast was the pace set by the Trojans in the opening inning but as soon as the Fall River nine secured the lead it took the initiative and kept the Trojans on the defensive by making the most of the locals misplays.

Sullivan of Brown again stepped into the box for the Trojans, and as was the case last season the Trojans supported him poorly, although he pitched strong ball for the entire 11 innings. The Fall River team made but four hits off him, one of these being decidedly scratch and coupled with this he fanned nine.

Golden did not need the assistance of his mates with the stick for he succeeded in keeping the Trojans in check. He gave but one free walk, and caused the Trojan sluggers to whiff the breezes on eight occasions.

Besides Sullivan the new men in Trojan uniform for the first time this season were Gilmore, a former Seton Hall player and Arnold of last year's Trojans who was the individual star for the locals. The work of Gilmore was mediocre but Arnold in right field caught on with the fans when he smashed out a brace of hits, caught two sensational flies, scored one run on a head on slide and was called out on another on a questionable decision. Dukette on first was the only other player on the Trojan team to handle himself in his usual form making several hard stops and smashing the ball for the only extra-base hit of the game.

For the Fall River team the work of Demoe deserves big praise. This diminutive short stop made two of his team's four hits, scored two of the five runs and played a whirlwind fielding game.

Fall River was retired in order to start the game Albion grounding out Harvey to Dukette after which Harrington fanned and Golden was retired, Walling to Dukette. The Trojans began the hostilities in their half, when Walling opened with a single to left. Dukette's perfect sacrifice sent him to second from which he scored on West's ranging single to centre. West was caught off first base and Gilmore was called out on strikes.

The Massachusetts team looked dangerous in the second when it bid fair to tie the score. O'Brien struck out but Demoe banged out a long single to centre. On Manning's grounder Demoe was forced at second, Manning going down later on a wild pitch. The latter went to third and Mooney to first when Harvey fumbled Mooney's grounder. Mooney stole second but was caught off the bag on a neat peg by Carr to Harvey ending the inning. The Trojans were retired in order in their half.

Two strike-outs and a weak grounder was the best offense the Spindle City nine could offer in the third. The Trojans began well when Demoe muffed Carr's high fly after a long run to centre field. Carr finally perching on second base. He went to third when Sullivan grounded out to O'Brien and scored the second run on a passed ball. Walling fanned and West flied out.

The All-Fall River athletes tied the score in the fourth in a peculiar manner. Harrington began by singling to centre. He was left on first base when Golden sent a fly to Martin and then O'Brien made the second out easily. Demoe sent up a weak pop fly in the infield along the third base line for which Carr, Sullivan and Walling went. Between them the ball fell safe for a hit. Harrington had rounded second and was started for third when Walling picked up the ball and threw it wild to Harvey. Harrington reaching third safely. The ball was recovered by Martin who tried to catch Demoe running down to second, the throw being high and going by West to Arnold in right field. Demoe immediately set out for third thinking Harrington had started for home and Arnold perceiving two runners in a mix up at third threw to that bag. The ball caromed off Harvey's glove and both Harrington and Demoe scored amid great confusion. Every player on the Trojan team had a hand in this play with the exception of Dukette and Gilmore.

The Trojans went out one two three in their half of the fourth and in the fifth Fall River went ahead. Mooney reached first on a base on balls. Sylvester sacrificed, sending Mooney to second. The latter reached third when Rockett went out Walling to Dukette. Fall River made its only earned run when Albion singled, scoring Mooney. Harrington ended the inning on a weak grounder.

In their half of the fifth the locals made three clean singles and yet were unable to secure a run. Arnold began it by a drive to left. Carr struck out but Sullivan singled sending Arnold to second. Walling drove a long single to left, on which Arnold attempted to score. Mooney threw to Sylvester and on a hook-on slide Arnold was called out, the decision not meeting general favor. Dukette ended the inning by grounding out, Golden to O'Brien.

The Trojans managed to tie the score in their half of the seventh when Arnold began the bombardment with his second single of the game, reaching third when Harrington threw wild to O'Brien. Arnold scored when Carr hit a grounder to third. Sullivan and West were the other outs after Carr had been caught off first base.

The end of the ninth inning found both teams still clinging to their three runs. Arnold made the nice high catch of the game in the beginning of the tenth when he nabbed Albion's line drive on the dead run. It did not seem as though he could come within ten yards of the ball. Dukette made a double for the Trojans in the last half of the same inning but the men following him were unable to solve Golden's slants and there was no score.

Fall River won in the eleventh without a hit. O'Brien went to first when Walling allowed his easy bounder to slip through his mitt, after which the runner promptly stole second, Carr's throw being much too high. O'Brien then stole third, and scored when Carr's wild throw to the bag went by Walling. Demoe walked and went to third when Manning grounded out to Dukette. Mooney struck out for the third straight time, and then Sylvester was hit on the head with a pitched ball, O'Brien running for him. O'Brien took a lead off first with Demoe on third, and Sullivan whipped the ball straight to Dukette. In going back to the bag O'Brien knocked the ball out of Dukette's hands, and Demoe scored the last run. In their half the Trojans were retired in order.

In their first regular game of the season the Newports showed their heels to the Training Station nine, which they defeated Sunday afternoon 11-5. The contest was witnessed by the largest crowd ever seen at a base ball game at the Vernon Avenue field, fully 700 filling both bleachers and extending far out along the foul lines. While Byrnes, the first-string pitcher was on the mound the sailors were held to one run, while the Newports made nine in five innings. Sullivan worked one inning for the Newports, but after being touched up for four runs retired in favor of Dillon, who shut out the Station in the closing three rounds.

Brilliant catches caused the spectators to applaud liberally in a number of instances, two by O'Connell, one by Gillis and two by Wild being made after long runs and preventing what looked to be extra-base hits. The Newports made their hits when hits meant runs and though the Training Station made an equal number their runners were generally left stranded on the bases while two fast double plays by the Newports prevented other rallies.

Illness prevented two of the Newport infield from playing in the opening contest, Extrom on first and Weaver on third. These are expected to be in harness next Sunday with Gibson behind the plate.

"Bart" Sheehan was the individual hero for the Newports, scoring four runs in four trips to the plate and two safe hits. "Chuck" O'Connell also hit for .500, besides entered the limelight for two sterling catches. The other player on the nine who hammered out a brace of hits was W Dillon, one of them being a two-base drive. Reynolds caught his first game in three years, and could be pardoned for the two passed balls which figured in the Training Station scoring.

The Newports began a steady tatoo in the opening inning when they sent two men across the rubber. Byrnes held the sailors to one hit until the fifth when two singles sent across the only Training Station run he allowed. In the meantime the Newports had added to their score in the third, when they drove in six tallies.

O'Connell began this inning with a clean single to centre but was put out at third when Sheehan singled, the later reaching second on the play and stealing third. Gillis took first and Martland's hit scored Sheehan. Both Gillis and Martland tallied when W Dillon sent out a clean two ply drive to centre field. Reynolds was safe on Allston's error, Dillon scoring. Byrnes's hit the fifth of the inning scored Reynolds and Cracker made the sixth tally on a passed ball. O'Sullivan made the third out grounding via Allston to Riley.

The Newports added another in the fourth when Sheehan made his second hit, stole second, reached third on a passed ball and tallied when Ramsey threw wild to third.

To begin the Training Station's half of the fifth inning Burns singled, stole second and tallied the Station's first run when McCorriston singled to left. McCorriston was stranded when the men behind him could not solve Byrnes's offerings.

Services for Miss Burdick, Joseph M. Waters and Mrs. Donahue.

The funeral of Miss Mary Buchanan Burdick was held at her late home on Sherman street Sunday afternoon. Rev. William Safford Jones of the Channing Memorial Church, of which Miss Burdick was a member, officiated, offering prayer and reading a short poem written by the late Rev Charles T. Brooks while minister at Channing. There was a large gathering of friends and many beautiful floral tributes of set pieces and cut flowers, including a cross of white roses and lilies from Channing Church corporation, a wreath from the Ladies' Serving Society of Channing Church, calla lilies from the Channing Guild, a wreath from the Social Club, and roses from the Current Topics Club.

At the conclusion of the services interment took place in the Burdick burial lot in the Island cemetery. The bearers were Messrs William Stevens, William H Lee, Harry W Fludder and James C Durfee.

Two intimate friends from Gardner, Mass., Miss Burdick's former home, Mrs. M M Favor and Miss Lucy Taggart, were present. The only relatives were an aunt, Mrs Jennie Jenner of New York, and a cousin, Mrs Dennis of Portsmouth.

The funeral of Joseph M Waters took place from his late residence at Appleby street this morning at 9 o'clock to St Joseph's Church where Rev Father O'Rouke celebrated a high mass of requiem for the repose of his soul. Rev William B Meenan, pastor of St Mary's, was seated in the chancel. The escort was headed by a delegation of the Knights of Columbus. The interment was in the family plot at St Columba's, the bearers being H A Martin, Timothy F Leary, James O'Connor, Andrew McMahon, Daniel S Sullivan and Frederick Sullivan of the Knights of Columbus. Among the many handsome floral offerings was a wreath on a standard from the Knights.

The funeral of Mrs Abby, widow of Patrick Donahue, took place this morning from her late residence on West Broadway to St Joseph's Church, where a solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev Father McLaughlin with Rev Father LaChance of the Convent of the Cenacle as deacon and Rev Father O'Rourke as sub-deacon. There was a large number at the service, Mrs Donahue being one of the oldest member of the parish and widely known in the section of the city where she lived. A large number of handsome floral offerings testified to her popularity. ATTACK ON THE WATER WORKS NOT THREATENED.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Members of the cabinet, after a prolonged conference with President Wilson today on the Mexican situation, declared that the President maintains confidence that mediation will succeed and serious consequences in Mexico will be averted.

Most of the discussion in the meeting, it is said, related to mediation and the views to be presented on behalf of this government by Justice Lamar and Frederick Lehnmann when the South American envoys seek the views of the United States and Huerta representatives at the conference.

Just before the cabinet met a message was received from General Funston, at Vera Cruz, in which the American commander declared that no attention should be paid to "alarmist reports" that Mexican forces were threatening to attack the Vera Cruz waterworks. There was no indication of movement of Mexican troops in preparation for such attack, the message said.

"There have been rumors," General Funston added, "that an attack was threatened. These have been due to remarks attributed to General Maas The waterworks cannot be taken from us by force. If the pipe line should be cut it could be repaired in a few hours."

General Funston said that 200 sacks of American mail, destined for Mexico City and delivered at the break in the railroad, still lay on the tracks in possession of the Mexican outposts. He had no news of Private Parks, who rode into the Mexican lines and has not returned.

Among matters the President and cabinet had under consideration was the appeal from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to General Funston on behalf of five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz, for "sniping" American soldiers from a Norwegian steamer. Three Brazilians are among the prisoners, and the appeal, coming from a diplomatic representative of one of the mediating nations, has presented a delicate problem for decision. Formal representations in behalf of the prisoners have been made at the State Department by the Brazilian ambassador and the Chilian and Argentine ministers.

The situation at Tampico is reported to have been discussed. Complications which might arise over the foreign-owned oil properties there, should destruction result from conflict between rebel and Federal forces, have been under consideration for some time. Lack of definite information as to the progress of the battle at Tampico is causing members considerable concern.

The report from London that Great Britain had ordered the Bristol, a speedy cruiser, to proceed to Tampico is not regarded as significant. As the Bristol is of light draught it is believed she may be used to operate in the Panuco river, along which the British oil properties are located.

Secretary Bryan announced after the meeting that the representations made to this government by the mediators in behalf of the South Amer-

"BALD JACK" ROSE STAR WITNESS AT THE TRIAL.

Reiterates Story of Murder As Previously Told.

Shapiro, Chauffeur, Relates His Experience With the Gun Men.

NEW YORK, May 12.—"Bald Jack" Rose, star witness at the first trial of Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, appeared in that role again today. He calmly told of the part he played in the events leading up to the gambler's death. Substantially it was the same story he told at the first trial. He spoke in a low tone and at times gazed directly at the defendant. Briefly Rose recited how Becker and Rosenthal had entered into partnership in a gambling establishment, how they quarrelled, how exposure for Becker as a police lieutenant was imminent, and how Rosenthal's death was plotted.

When the trial was resumed District Attorney Charles S. Whitman called Dr Dennis Taylor to the stand as the last of several witnesses to establish the death of Rosenthal. Dr. Taylor, at the time of the murder, was an ambulance surgeon and his testimony was necessary, because it was he who pronounced the gambler dead. Following Dr. Taylor, the district attorney called Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the car in which the gun men are said to have escaped from the scene of the murder

The cross-examination of witnesses for the prosecution by Martin T. Manton seemed to show the line the defense will follow. It was evident that Becker's new counsel intends to run close to the old defense at the first trial and try to show that the murder of Rosenthal was the result of a gamblers' fued, without the guiding hand of the defendant. The inference is that the blame for the actual shooting, as before, will be placed on "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, instead of the four gunmen, who have already been executed for wielding the revolvers.

Shapiro, the chauffeur, told of receiving a call at his stand in front of the Cafe Boulevard late at night July 13. He then went to Tom Sharkey's saloon, where he picked

NO HOSTILITIES BY AMERICANS EXPECTED.

Federals Not Likely to Advance Lines During Conference.

Funston and Porter Discuss Alleged Breaking of Armistice.

VERA CRUZ, May 12.—While the Mexican commissioners are en route to attend the peace conference at Niagara Falls Canada, during the sessions of the conference there will be no inauguration of hostilities by the American forces here, and there is no reason to believe that the Mexican Federals will advance their lines.

The recent charge by General Blanquet that the Americans were breaking the armistice caused General Funston to confer with his legal adviser, Colonel Porter. General Funston and Colonel Porter agreed that while actually no armistice or truce, either implying hostilities, which none but President Huerta admits exists, there is a tacit understanding that neither side will inaugurate hostilities. So far as this agreement affects the movement of troops within their own lines, General Funston and Colonel Porter declare that both the Mexicans and American forces had this right. It is expected that President Huerta will move some of the Mexican troops towards the coast, and behind the American lines such minor changes of position as are required will continue to be made. The interpretation placed upon the agreement by General Funston and Colonel Porter would permit of unlimited strengthening of both the Mexican and American forces so long as no advance was made

Slight alterations were made today in the position of the American forces, to which the Mexican authorities might find objection, but which are regarded by General Funston and Colonel Porter as justified beyond any question of dispute At the Tejar water works station there was a detached outpost. Between this post and the main body of troops there were only connecting posts, but on account of the absolute necessity of protecting the water supply of Vera Cruz patrols were ordered to be placed all along the pipe line. The water supply is as plentiful as ever, but the increasing population due to the influx of refugees, has made its conservation one of the most important matters to be considered by General Funston.

Several schools re-opened today in addition to those which were re-established yesterday, and the department of health and police continued their work of restoring the city to normal conditions. The work of the native officers has been quite satisfactory, according to Captain Ramford head of the police department Thus far the native officers have escaped the disapproval of their fellow countrymen except in a few instances where they were made the victims of jeers and taunts. When such instances occurred the prompt arrest of the offenders has resulted in a display of more respect for the work of the native police by Mexicans generally.

Americans here, who own property in various parts of Mexico, report that from information received by them from refugees and other sources a large number of plantations west and south of Vera Cruz, abandoned by the owners, have been looted.

"There have been rumors," General Funston added, "that an attack was threatened. These have been due to remarks attributed to General Maas. The waterworks cannot be taken from us by force. If the pipe line should be cut it could be repaired in a few hours."

General Funston said that 200 sacks of American mail, destined for Mexico City and delivered at the break in the railroad, still lay on the tracks in possession of the Mexican outposts. He had no news of Private Parks, who rode into the Mexican lines and has not returned.

Among matters the President and cabinet had under consideration was the appeal from the Brazilian minister at Mexico City to General Funston on behalf of five South Americans under arrest at Vera Cruz, for "sniping" American soldiers from a Norwegian steamer. Three Brazilians are among the prisoners, and the appeal, coming from a diplomatic representative of one of the mediating nations, has presented a delicate problem for decision. Formal representations in behalf of the prisoners have been made at the State Department by the Brazilian ambassador and the Chilian and Argentine ministers.

The situation at Tampico is reported to have been discussed. Complications which might arise over the foreign-owned oil properties there, should destruction result from conflict between rebel and Federal forces, have been under consideration for some time. Lack of definite information as to the progress of the battle at Tampico is causing members considerable concern.

The report from London that Great Britain had ordered the Bristol, a speedy cruiser, to proceed to Tampico is not regarded as significant. As the Bristol is of light draught it is believed she may be used to operate in the Panuco river, along which the British oil properties are located.

Secretary Bryan announced after the meeting that the representations made to this government by the mediators in behalf of the South Amer-

"BALD JACK" ROSE STAR WITNESS AT THE TRIAL.

Reiterates Story of Murder As Previously Told.

Shapiro, Chauffeur, Relates His Experience With the Gun Men.

NEW YORK, May 12—"Bald Jack" Rose, star witness at the first trial of Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, appeared in that role again today. He calmly told of the part he played in the events leading up to the gambler's death. Substantially it was the same story he told at the first trial. He spoke in a low tone and at times gazed directly at the defendant. Briefly Rose recited how Becker and Rosenthal had entered into partnership in a gambling establishment, how they quarrelled, how exposure for Becker as a police lieutenant was imminent, and how Rosenthal's death was plotted.

When the trial was resumed District Attorney Charles S. Whitman called Dr. Dennis Taylor to the stand as the last of several witnesses to establish the death of Rosenthal. Dr. Taylor, at the time of the murder, was an ambulance surgeon and his testimony was necessary, because it was he who pronounced the gambler dead. Following Dr. Taylor, the district attorney called Willie Shapiro, the chauffeur of the car in which the gun men are said to have escaped from the scene of the murder.

The cross-examination of witnesses for the prosecution by Martin T. Manton seemed to show the line the defense will follow. It was evident that Becker's new counsel intends to run close to the old defense at the first trial and try to show that the murder of Rosenthal was the result of a gamblers' feud, without the guiding hand of the defendant. The inference is that the blame for the actual shooting, as before, will be placed on "Bridgie" Webber and Harry Vallon, instead of the four gunmen, who have already been executed for wielding the revolvers.

Shapiro, the chauffeur, told of receiving a call at his stand in front of the Cafe Boulevard late at night July 13. He then went to Tom Sharkey's saloon, where he picked

NO HOSTILITIES BY AMERICANS EXPECTED.

Federals Not Likely to Advance Lines During Conference.

Funston and Porter Discuss Alleged Breaking of Armistice.

VERA CRUZ, May 12.—While the Mexican commissioners are en route to attend the peace conference at Niagara Falls, Canada, during the sessions of the conference there will be no inauguration of hostilities by the American forces here, and there is no reason to believe that the Mexican Federals will advance their lines.

The recent charge by General Blanquet that the Americans were breaking the armistice caused General Funston to confer with his legal adviser, Colonel Porter. General Funston and Colonel Porter agreed that while actually no armistice or truce, either implying hostilities, which none but President Huerta admits exists, there is a tacit understanding that neither side will inaugurate hostilities. So far as this agreement affects the movement of troops within their own lines, General Funston and Colonel Porter declare that both the Mexicans and American forces had this right. It is expected that President Huerta will move some of the Mexican troops towards the coast, and behind the American lines such minor changes of position as are required will continue to be made. The interpretation placed upon the agreement by General Funston and Colonel Porter would permit of unlimited strengthening of both the Mexican and American forces so long as no advance was made.

Slight alterations were made today in the position of the American forces, to which the Mexican authorities might find objection, but which are regarded by General Funston and Colonel Porter as justified beyond any question of dispute. At the Tejar water works station there was a detached outpost. Between this post and the main body of troops there were only connecting posts, but on account of the absolute necessity of protecting the water supply of Vera Cruz patrols were ordered to be placed all along the pipe line. The water supply is as plentiful as ever, but the increasing population due to the influx of refugees, has made its conservation one of the most important matters to be considered by General Funston.

Several schools re-opened today in addition to those which were re-established yesterday, and the department of health and police continued their work of restoring the city to normal conditions. The work of the native officers has been quite satisfactory, according to Captain Ramford, head of the police department. Thus far the native officers have escaped the disapproval of their fellow countrymen except in a few instances where they were made the victims of jeers and taunts. When such instances occurred the prompt arrest of the offenders has resulted in a display of more respect for the work of the native police by Mexicans generally.

Americans here, who own property in various parts of Mexico, report that from information received by them from refugees and other sources a large number of plantations west and south of Vera Cruz, abandoned by the owners, have been looted.

An attendant promptly seized her and took her to the police station, where she said her name was Mary Ansell.

ROGERS LOSES BY LARGE SCORE.

Boys Make Ten Errors in Return Engagement With St. George's Team.

A Close Game at Fort Adams—St. Mary's and Coggeshall Wins Grammar School Contests.

Rogers hit the ball for two home runs a triple a double and five long singles at St George's Monday afternoon but despite this lost its second game of the season by the overwhelming score of 16-5 It was the return engagement Rogers having won the first 6-5 and the result came as a surprise to the large number of followers who accompanied the team to Middletown St George's also had a big day with the bat smashing out no less than 15 hits, one of which was a homer

Loose play on the part of Rogers was responsible for many of the runs made by St George's the latter making several after two men had been put out without scoring Rogers was playing its first game in 10 days, during which the practice was held up on account of rain or postponements Unaccustomed to the steady tattoo of hits the boys weakened badly in the field and made 10 errors the greatest number in the six games played to date

With each succeeding game St George's has been growing stronger and they solved the Rogers pitchers with apparent ease Once they secured a flying start there was no denying them for they pummelled the ball all over the lot and fielded brilliantly when Rogers came to bat all the latter's runs being earned on solid slugging In 45 chances in the field St George's made but one misplay while the team's batting average for the afternoon reached [illegible]

The shining feature in the Rogers defeat was the ability to hit Denniston was the batting hero of the contest making a clean home run a long drive for a triple and a single but Diggles pressed him closely with a home run a double and a single in as many times to bat

Although Rogers was out-batted 15 to 10 the locals hits went for a total of 20 bases while the St George's total amounted to but 18 The real reason for the defeat lies in the fact that Rogers made 10 errors St George's offending but once and then at a time when no damage was done

Cremin who began the game for Rogers had one of his rare off days He was touched for nine hits and eight runs in the first two innings and gave way to Tubley whose good work during the remainder of the contest was marred by his team's frequent errors Although the St George's boys scored most of their runs on clean hits nevertheless the Rogers errors enabled runners to get on bases from which hits scored the runs

Rogers made two hits in the first inning but was unable to produce a tally Ford being called out after he had over slid second St George's began the scoring in its half of the same inning Goodspeed smashing out a single to right and Duryea's sacrifice sending him to second Lewis was safe on Cremin's error Goodspeed going to third and scoring when Hobbs fumbled the ball in centre McElwaine singled and a passed ball put Lewis on third and McElwaine on first Powel then cleared the bags with a home run to left on a hit which would ordinarily have been but a two-bagger the ball being lost under the trees Haffner singled but Alderlice ended the inning by fanning St George's had made four runs

In the second Pinto went out Duryea to Lewis but then Diggles came to the front with a ringing drive over the left field trees for a clean home run The remaining Rogers batters fanned

Crocker walked to start the second half of the second inning He was caught off first and Goodspeed made the second out on a fly to Arnold Duryea singled and stole second Cremin was wild and hit Lewis with a pitched ball McElwaine's second hit [illegible] Duryea and Curtis's drive [illegible] and Lewis McElwaine flashed across on Powel's drive to left and Curtis [illegible] in the eighth run when he registered on Haffner's second hit Haffner was out stealing Tubley in the meantime had relieved Cremin

Cremin fanned but Rogers tallied [illegible] walked and went to third on [illegible] sacrifice Denniston's triple [illegible] and Arnold's [illegible] drive tallied Denniston

A series of errors put Tubley in hot water in the fourth Kelley and Ford between them putting enough men on bases so that [illegible] Successive hits by Powel Haffner and Alderlice [illegible] runs while a wild throw by [illegible] let two in [illegible]

Rogers made its last two runs in the fifth Kelley singled but was caught [illegible] trying to go [illegible] and on Intoglia's grounder Intoglia [illegible] at second when Ford singled [illegible] then Ford stole second Denniston [illegible] himself the batting star when [illegible] with one of Duryea's [illegible] which sailed [illegible] the gymnasium and the [illegible] was not recovered before [illegible] touched home [illegible]

[illegible] Two hits by Lewis [illegible] Haffner two errors by Rogers [illegible] exhibitions of glass arms on the part of the Rogers players [illegible] St George's to score three [illegible]

The batting stars for the St George's team were Haffner who made [illegible] in four trips to the rubber Powel with [illegible] and two singles and Duryea and McElwaine with two singles each

A CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN.

Chief Kirwin to Push Plans as to Littered Places Which Invite Fire.

Chief Kirwin has started on a clean-up campaign He says that while some property owners have been pleading for leniency the citizens are now after him and he will go the limit with those who persist in keeping littered up places which invite fire There are places which while perhaps they do not tempt fire need cleaning and the health department is to be pushed to go its limit also There is a sort of dual responsibility which is thought to make the effort for a clean city somewhat hard to handle but plans are said to be under way to centralize this so that the responsibility will rest with but one official If this one does not act it will not be so difficult to place the blame and force an improvement

WHEN THE CORK GETS INTO THE BOTTLE

[New York World Magazine]

It often happens that in trying to uncork a bottle the cork is pushed in instead of out Then the cork makes a nuisance of itself by floating up and stopping the flow of liquid It is impossible to get hold of the cork or to insert a corkscrew in it therefore it must stay in the bottle

It is easy to prevent it from impeding the flow The simplest method is to make a loop of wire and push it down the neck of the bottle This will keep the cork away from the opening of the neck of the bottle

ROGERS LOSES BY LARGE SCORE.

Rogers hit the ball for two home runs, a triple, a double and five long singles at St. George's Monday afternoon, but despite this lost its second game of the season by the overwhelming score of 16-5. It was the return engagement, Rogers having won the first, 6-5, and the result came as a surprise to the large number of followers who accompanied the team to Middletown. St. George's also had a big day with the bat, smashing out no less than 15 hits, one of which was a homer.

Loose play on the part of Rogers was responsible for many of the runs made by St. George's, the latter making several after two men had been put out without scoring. Rogers was playing its first game in 10 days, during which the practice was held up on account of rain or postponements. Unaccustomed to the steady tattoo of hits, the boys weakened badly in the field and made 10 errors, the greatest number in the six games played to date.

With each succeeding game St. George's has been growing stronger, and they solved the Rogers pitchers with apparent ease. Once they secured a flying start there was no denying them, for they pummelled the ball all over the lot, and fielded brilliantly when Rogers came to bat, all the latter's runs being earned on solid slugging. In 45 chances in the field St. George's made but one misplay, while the team's batting average for the afternoon reached .350

The shining feature in the Rogers defeat was the ability to hit. Denniston was the batting hero of the contest, making a clean home run, a long drive for a triple and a single, but Diggles pressed him closely with a home run, a double and a single in as many times to bat.

Although Rogers was out-batted, 15 to 10, the locals' hits went for a total of 20 bases, while the St. George's total amounted to but 18. The real reason for the defeat lies in the fact that Rogers made 10 errors, St. George's offending but once, and then at a time when no damage was done.

Cremin, who began the game for Rogers, had one of his rare off days. He was touched for nine hits and eight runs in the first two innings and gave way to Tubley, whose good work during the remainder of the contest was marred by his team's frequent errors. Although the St. George's boys scored most of their runs on clean hits, nevertheless the Rogers errors enabled runners to get on bases, from which hits scored the runs.

Rogers made two hits in the first inning, but was unable to produce a tally, Ford being called out after he had over-slid second. St. George's began the scoring in its half of the same inning, Goodspeed smashing out a single to right, and Duryea's sacrifice sending him to second. Lewis was safe on Cremin's error, Goodspeed going to third and scoring when Hobbs fumbled the ball in centre. McElwaine singled, and a passed ball put Lewis on third and McElwaine on first. Powel then cleared the bags with a home run to left, on a hit which would ordinarily have been but a two-bagger, the ball being lost under the trees. Haffner singled, but Alderdice ended the inning by fanning. St. George's had made four runs.

In the second Pinto went out, Duryea to Lewis, but then Diggles came to the front with a ringing drive over the left-field trees for a clean home run. The remaining Rogers batters fanned.

Crocker walked to start the second half of the second inning. He was caught off first, and Goodspeed made the second out on a fly to Arnold. Duryea singled and stole second. Cremin was wild and hit Lewis with a pitched ball. McElwaine's second hit scored Duryea, and Curtis's drive tallied Lewis. McElwaine flashed across on Powel's drive to left, and Curtis brought in the eighth run when he registered on Haffner's second hit. Haffner was out, stealing. Tubley in the meantime had relieved Cremin.

Cremin fanned, but Rogers rallied well. Integlia walked, and went to third on Ford's perfect sacrifice. Denniston's triple scored Integlia, and Arnold's safe drive tallied Denniston.

A series of errors put Tubley in hot water in the fourth, Kelley and Ford between them putting enough men on bases so that Tubley weakened temporarily. Successive hits by Powel, Haffner and Alderdice scored three runs, while a wild throw by Ford let in two more.

Rogers made its last two runs in the fifth. Kelley singled, but was caught easily trying to go down to second on Integlia's grounder. Integlia went out at second when Ford singled and then Ford stole second. Denniston made himself the batting star when he connected with one of Duryea's fast ones for a liner which sailed between the gymnasium and the main building, and was not recovered before Denniston touched home, scoring Ford ahead of him.

The last half of the fifth saw all the rest of the scoring. Two hits by Lewis and Haffner, two errors by Rogers, and some exhibitions of "glass arms" on the part of the Rogers players, enabled St. George's to score three runs.

The batting stars for the St. George's team were Haffner, who made four hits in four trips to the rubber; Powel, who made a homer and two singles, and Duryea and McElwaine, with two singles each.

At Fort Adams Monday the One Hundred and Seventeenth Company defeated the One Hundred and Thirtieth Company, 4 to 3 in a close game. The losers did the heavier batting, making 12 to 8 hits, and also had a shade the better of the fielding, with 2 errors against 4. Maravich, pitcher for the One Hundred and Seventeenth, gave 8 bases on balls and struck out 13, while Ashley gave but 2 bases and struck out 5. McLean did the best batting for the winners, making a double and a three-bagger, while for the losers Brandon made three singles and Jones a single and a double. The One Hundred and Thirtieth Company is credited with all the stolen bases, Ellis and Davis having two each, and Jones and Brandon one each. The teams were as follows:

Two games were played Monday afternoon in the minor division of the Grammar School League, St. Mary's defeating the Lenthal, 7 to 3, and Coggeshall worsting Cranston, 15 to 4. Both were on the Basin lot, and were witnessed by a large crowd of interested spectators. They were under the direction of Physical Director P. H. Slocum of the Young Men's Christian Association.

In the St. Mary's Lenthal game the former secured an early lead, holding it to the end. Lenthal braced in the last inning, but was unable to overcome the advantage. The score by innings was as follows:

St. Mary's	1	0	2	1	3	0	x—7
Lenthal	0	0	0	1	0	0	2—3

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Coggeshall	6	1	2	6	0	0	0—15
Cranston	0	0	0	2	0	0	2— 4

A CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN.

Chief Kirwin to Push Plans as to Littered Places Which Invite Fire.

Chief Kirwin has started on a clean-up campaign. He says that, while some property owners have been pleading for leniency, the citizens are now after him and he will go the limit with those who persist in keeping littered-up places which invite fire. There are places which, while perhaps they do not tempt fire, need cleaning and the health department is to be pushed to go its limit also. There is a sort of dual responsibility, which is thought to make the effort for a clean city somewhat hard to handle, but plans are said to be under way to centralize this, so that the responsibility will rest with but one official. If this one does not act it will not be so difficult to place the blame and force an improvement.

MR. KAULL HEARD FROM.

Car Barn Robber Said to be Wanted in Other Places Than St. Louis.

Chief of Police Crowley has an interesting letter from Pardon S. Kaull, vice president of the Warren Bros Co., at St. Louis, Mo., who was chief of police when the car barn robbers made their escape from the Newport jail. Mr. Kaull will never forget that day, no matter how much pavement he lays. He writes that he had met Detective Hunt, brother of the officer whom Thornton, St. Paul Tip, is charged with killing. He thought prospects of conviction on the murder charge would be small, on account of the time, but that there is a good chance to convict on robbery, as there are several good witnesses. Thornton's mother was on from San Francisco to see him. In addition to the St. Louis troubles, the man is wanted in Walla Walla and Wilmington.

Mr. Kaull hopes to visit Newport this season; in any case his wife will come east in July. St. Louis is much less endurable in summer than their former home, Kansas City.

WHEN THE CORK GETS INTO THE BOTTLE.

[New York World Magazine.]

It often happens that in trying to uncork a bottle the cork is pushed in instead of out. Then the cork makes a nuisance of itself by floating up and stopping the flow of liquid. It is impossible to get hold of the cork or to insert a corkscrew in it, therefore it must stay in the bottle.

It is easy to prevent it from impeding the flow. The simplest method is to make a loop of wire and push this down the neck of the bottle. This will keep the cork away from the opening of the neck of the bottle.

Missionary Society Elects Officers—Rev. Mr. Matthews Speaks on Liberia.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, to have been held last week but postponed on account of the rain, took place Monday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage, the president, Mrs Fred Smith, in the chair. A letter was read from Edith Anna Hemingway of Singapore, with whom one of the members has been in correspondence for the past eight years. Kodak pictures of one of her schools, and another of a heathen idol were shown. Plans were discussed for an entertainment to be given later.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Fred Smith; vice president, Miss Ellen E. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. Isaac Peabody; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Wallace Peckham; treasurer, Mrs. Ida M. Brown; board of managers, Mrs. E. E. Wells, Mrs. E. A. Peckham, Mrs. R. Wallace Peckham.

The program, which had been arranged by Mrs. Peabody, opened with a roll-call on items of interest about Mexico, Mrs. Smith presenting a paper on its religion. Brief accounts of the work accomplished in Africa, Malaysia and the Philippines were given by various members, and what had been done by the wives of missionaries. A general summary was given of 'The King's Business,' one of the study books for the year, which was completed at this meeting.

The June meeting, which will close the season, will be devoted to a miscellaneous program.

A special service was held at the Church of the Holy Cross Monday evening to present Rev. Nathan Matthews of Virginia, a returned missionary from Liberia, Africa. Missionary hymns were sung and a short service of intercession and prayer was conducted by the rector, Rev. F. W. Goodman who in introducing Rev. Mr. Matthews said he had learned that evening of the coincidence whereby Mr. Matthews was now to be stationed at St. Elmo, Lookout Mountain, Tenn., the church which Rev. Mr. Goodman was instrumental in building while he was stationed, many years ago, at Chatanooga.

Rev. Mr. Matthews has been 14 years on the west coast of Africa, during four years of which his wife has been with him. It is owing to the serious effects of the malarial fever upon her health that he has been obliged to give up this work among the tribes in which he has been so deeply interested. Rev. Mr. Matthews spoke gratefully of the interest of this parish for 30 years past in the sending annually of $25 which aids in the educational work. While continually subject to malarial fever, the speaker has always rallied and felt that he could have withstood it, although many cannot. His extended talk was graphically given and held the close attention of his hearers. He performed the closing portion of the service.

The gathering then adjourned to the guild house, where an informal reception was held and light refreshments served, under the direction of the guild president, Mrs. Clarence C. Thurston.

Rev. Mr. Matthews was guest of Rev. Mr. Goodman at St. Mary's rectory.

A full meeting of the Sunday School Board was held Monday evening at the Methodist parsonage. A large amount of business was transacted and the following committees appointed for Children's Day, usually the second Sunday in June: Program, Assistant Superintendent, Miss Elizabeth A. Peckham, Mrs. Roland Frye, Mrs. Isaac Peabody; music, Mrs. Ida M. Brown, Mrs. Fred P. Webber; decorating, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Barker, Mrs. William J. Peckham.

Miss Mary Lydia Hart, who is in training at the Boston Homoepathic Hospital, was attacked last Friday with scarlet fever at the contagious ward, Brighton, where she was in charge of patients. She had been back at the hospital only two weeks, having been at home for many weeks, recuperatnig from a severe attack of diphtheria, which she contracted while in the contagious ward, where the nurses are required to serve six months.

Humming birds, the "yellow bird" and orioles have appeared this week.

About 20 of the young women operators at the Telephone Exchange were entertained by Miss Alice Nickerson, one of their number, at her home on Second street Monday evening. Later there was a musical program, including piano selections by Miss Edith Arnold and vocal numbers by Miss Grace An[illegible] and Miss Grace Goddard, while Miss Nellie Noonan gave a demonstration of some of the new dances

FISKE A "NERVOUS" MAN.

Keeps His F[illegible]re in Basket at Masthead While Spaniards Shoot at the Petrel.

Experiences Helped in Perfecting Invention Which Has Made Navy More Efficient.

[Herbert Corey, in Washington Star.]

"I'll admit I was nervous," said Bradley Allen Fiske. "The trouble was that I didn't have enough to do, I kept thinking about myself."

Just nervous, that was all. But while he was nervous he was hanging from a rope-tied basket from the foremast of the Petrel. And the battle of Manila bay was going on, and a great many callous Spaniards were shooting at the comparatively fragile Petrel with large, resonant guns. The shells splashed water in his eyes.

"I had taken a life preserver up with me," said Fiske, "but I don't know what I would have done with it if the ship had been struck. I might have lost it."

Very nervous man, Fiske. On another occasion he was lying in his berth facing the steel deck two feet above his head. The ship was creeping through a channel in which it was believed torpedoes had been planted. Fiske was nervous again. The last thing he thought of before he went to sleep was that if a torpedo were to go off beneath him he would be squashed into unpleasant flatness against that steel roof. Still, he went to sleep.

"I could hear the surgeon snoring in the next room," he said in explanation. "Very soothing."

Fiske is today a rear admiral of the United States navy and in command of the bureau of operations, which is being kept fairly busy during the present fracas with Mexico. What is of greater importance is the fact that he is the man to whom the recent great improvement in the world's naval gunnery is directly due. His stadimeter and range finder is in use on every modern warship in the world. He is the Edison of war afloat.

Fiske began inventing things when he was but an ensign. He was born in Lyons, N. Y., in 1854, and graduated second in his class at the Naval Academy in 1874. Every now and then he would think of something to invent. But while he was at work upon it he would be sent where a workshop could not be found with a search warrant, and a drawing board had never been heard of. That is the usual lot of young officers, but not all young officers had the excellent reason for desiring to stay put that Fiske had. Finally he became discouraged. Then the possibility of a war with Spain began to loom up. His application was refused.

He had already roughly developed his stadimeter and path finder. When the battle order was displayed in Manila bay Fiske was filled with the enthusiasm of the true inventor. In order to test his invention he obtained permission to lash a basket to the foremast of the Petrel, which was not provided with accommodations for officers who wanted to be out in the open during a battle. There, with his orderly, to whom he dictated observations, he sat happily through the fight. Even in its crude form his device worked successfully. Between observations he noticed that the hydraulic devices which were depended on to turn the turrets were not altogether satisfactory. That pleased him. He had an electrical turret turning motor on the fire.

Fiske was pained to observe that the American gunners not only fired slowly, but were inaccurate, although he could see that the men were cool and systematic as they worked about the guns. He noted a good many other things, all of which notations bore results. Today all battleships have an electrical system of interior communication, which is Fiske's. They have a boat detaching device and electric ammunition hoists and range indicators and battle order telegraph and helm indicators and a dozen and one other improvements which are Fiske's.

Other men have bettered the armor and the guns. But the test of armor versus gun does not come until a ship has been hit by a projectile. In the Spanish war days the percentage of hits is reported to have been about one in six. Today the percentage at target practice is about five in six. Fiske's range finder and telescope sight did the trick.

In naval circles Fiske is somewhat noted for his candor. Most people held immediately after the battles of Manila bay and Santiago that the Americans were superior to the Spaniards at every point. Fiske thought then, and has never changed his opinion, that the American fleet was but the instrument of a higher power. Given ordinary battle judgment on the part of the Spanish admiral and he fears that not an American ship would ever have gone out of Manila bay. But he tempers his criticism of the bad shooting of the Americans with enthusiastic praise of the Americans themselves. Although wrought up to a high nervous tension they worked with cold precision at their battle stations. And under their skins they were fairly wriggling with happiness at the fun of fighting.

"When Admiral Dewey ordered us to cease firing and go to lunch," said he, "I came down from the improvised conning tower. My hands were covered with powder dirt and I offered to wash them. Half a dozen messmates called to me.

"'Don't wash off that dirt;' they shouted 'We don't get a battle every day.'"

WHEN AN ESKIMO DIES.

[Wide World Magazine.]

When an Eskimo is dying you will notice the inmates of the house moving everything out of doors, otherwise it would be contaminated by the presence of the dead man and rendered unfit for use. Among some tribes the dying man himself is borne outside. He is never taken out the entrance tunnel, but always through the smoke-hole or back of the house, and the passage is then closed so that his spirit will not find its way back. The Eskimos appear to have an uncanny presentiment of the approach of that dread spirit who comes to one and all. When you see them preparing the grave-clothes of one of their number who is ill you may know that his end is near. I do not think they do anything to hasten the end, although they may stab or hang the hopelessly infirm at their own request. It appears to be an instinctive feeling which is common to primitive people, and which is often noticed in the lower animals.

Sometimes a man thinks he is a reformer with a message to the groping public, when he is only personally peevish.

CLEAN CITIES.

Freedom From Dirt Makes for Health, Prosperity and and Efficiency.

In view of the approaching local observance of "clean-up day," the following paragraph from the Philadelphia North American may be of interest to readers:

A clean city means first a healthy city.

A healthy city is an efficient city.

An efficient city is bound to be a prosperous city.

A clean city means more business in the shops and stores and more money in the bank. It means fewer inmates in hospitals, asylums and prisons—yes, in prisons, for the breeds crime as well as disease!—and therefore more money for needed public improvements, such as parks, playgrounds, art galleries and schools.

It means more prosperity in mills and factories and more opportunities for work. Naturally, all these favorable conditions centre their benefits in the homes of the people. A clean city means happier and better-provided homes, stronger children and more cash and comfort.

All this is not to be gained by waking up for a week and then going to sleep again. To clean up is only the first step forward. To keep clean is the way to reach the goal!

A MODERN VERSION OF AN OLD MELODY.

[Prize poem in St. Nicholas by Nell Adams, age fifteen.]

Oh, don't you remember last summer, my dear,
Our camp by the old millstream;
That freedom has spoiled me for school work this year—
It seems like a terrible dream.
And after a while I will wake from my sleep,
And see the old tent in the shade;
The clothes and the dishes all piled in a heap,
The table that wobbled and swayed.

Oh, don't you remember the "chuggers," my love,
And the burs that grew up on the cliff;
The many mosquitos that hovered above,
The black snake that frightened me stiff.
So well I remembered the hot, dusty road
That we tramped in our bathing suits wet;
The leaky old boat that we patiently towed,
The fish that we never did get!

FORSYTHIA.

[Elizabeth West Parker.]

Oh, the sunbeams wooed the willows
All through the winter days,
And they blossomed pussy-willows,
All sober browns and grays.

But the awkward bare forsythias
At the first warm smile of spring
Laughed back; and sudden found themselves
A golden glorying!

Missionary Society Elects Officers—Rev. Mr. Matthews Speaks on Liberia.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, to have been held last week but postponed on account of the rain, took place Monday afternoon at the Methodist parsonage, the president, Mrs Fred Smith, in the chair. A letter was read from Edith Anna Hemingway of Singapore, with whom one of the members has been in correspondence for the past eight years. Kodak pictures of one of her schools, and another of a heathen idol were shown. Plans were discussed for an entertainment to be given later.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Fred Smith; vice president, Miss Ellen E. Smith; recording secretary, Mrs. Isaac Peabody; corresponding secretary, Mrs. R. Wallace Peckham; treasurer, Mrs. Ida M. Brown; board of managers, Mrs. E. E. Wells, Mrs. E. A. Peckham, Mrs. R. Wallace Peckham.

The program, which had been arranged by Mrs. Peabody, opened with a roll-call on items of interest about Mexico, Mrs. Smith presenting a paper on its religion. Brief accounts of the work accomplished in Africa, Malaysia and the Philippines were given by various members, and what had been done by the wives of missionaries. A general summary was given of "The King's Business," one of the study books for the year, which was completed at this meeting.

The June meeting, which will close the season, will be devoted to a miscellaneous program.

A special service was held at the church of the Holy Cross Monday evening to present Rev. Nathan Matthews of Virginia, a returned missionary from Liberia, Africa. Missionary hymns were sung and a short service of intercession and prayer was conducted by the rector, Rev. F. W. Goodman who in introducing Rev. Mr. Matthews said he had learned that evening of the coincidence whereby Mr. Matthews was now to be stationed at St. Elmo, Lookout Mountain, Tenn., the church which Rev. Mr. Goodman was instrumental in building while he was stationed, many years ago, at Chatanooga.

Rev. Mr. Matthews has been 14 years on the west coast of Africa, during four years of which his wife has been with him. It is owing to the serious effects of the malarial fever upon her health that he has been obliged to give up this work among the tribes in which he has been so deeply interested. Rev. Mr. Matthews spoke gratefully of the interest of this parish for 30 years past in the sending annually of $26 which aids in the educational work. While continually subject to malarial fever, the speaker has always rallied and felt that he could have withstood it, although many cannot. His extended talk was graphically given and held the close attention of his hearers. He performed the closing portion of the service.

The gathering then adjourned to the guild house, where an informal reception was held and light refreshments served, under the direction of the guild president, Mrs. Clarence C. Thurston.

Rev. Mr. Matthews was guest of Rev. Mr. Goodman at St. Mary's rectory.

A full meeting of the Sunday School Board was held Monday evening at the Methodist parsonage. A large amount of business was transacted and the following committees appointed for Children's Day, usually the second Sunday in June: Progam, Assistant Superintendent, Miss Elizabeth A. Peckham, Mrs. Roland Frye, Mrs. Isaac Peabody; music, Mrs. Ida M. Brown, Mrs. Fred P. Webber; decorating, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Peckham, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Barker, Mrs. William J. Peckham.

Miss Mary Lydia Hart, who is in training at the Boston Homoepathic Hospital, was attacked last Friday with scarlet fever at the contagious ward, Brighton, where she was in charge of patients. She had been back at the hospital only two weeks, having been at home for many weeks, recuperatnig from a severe attack of diphtheria, which she contracted while in the contagious ward, where the nurses are required to serve six months.

Humming birds, the "yellow bird" and orioles have appeared this week.

Place in a saucepan, add a teaspoonful of salt, a thin slice of onion, a sprig of parsley and boiling water to cover. Simmer gently 20 minutes. When the brains are done drain quickly, arrange on a hot platter, pour over black butter, sprinkle with a little chopped parsley and serve as quickly as possible, as they are at their best when piping hot.

Put in a small saucepan two tablespoonfuls of butter, add a slight dash of cayenne and heat slowly; let it color until almost black, then add two tablespoonfuls of plain or tarragon vinegar. Draw to one side until the brains are cooked and keep hot.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR TELEPHONE OPERATORS.

About 20 of the young women operators at the Telephone Exchange were entertained by Miss Alice Nickerson, one of their number, at her home on Second street Monday evening. Whist was played, the prizes being awarded to Miss Helen Briggs and Miss Essie Sullivan. Later there was a musical program, including piano selections by Miss Edith Arnold and vocal numbers by Miss Grace Anthony and Miss Grace Goddard, while Miss Nellie Noonan gave a demonstration of some of the new dances

FISKE A "NERVOUS" MAN.

Keeps His Place in Basket at Masthead While Spaniards Shoot at the Petrel.

Experiences Helped in Perfecting Invention Which Has Made Navy More Efficient.

[Herbert Corey, in Washington Star.]

"I'll admit I was nervous," said Bradley Allen Fiske. "The trouble was that I didn't have enough to do. I kept thinking about myself."

Just nervous, that was all. But while he was nervous he was hanging from a rope-tied basket from the foremast of the Petrel. And the battle of Manila bay was going on, and a great many callous Spaniards were shooting at the comparatively fragile Petrel with large, resonant guns. The shells splashed water in his eyes.

"I had taken a life preserver up with me," said Fiske, "but I don't know what I would have done with it if the ship had been struck. I might have lost it."

Very nervous man, Fiske. On another occasion he was lying in his berth facing the steel deck two feet above his head. The ship was creeping through a channel in which it was believed torpedoes had been planted. Fiske was nervous again. The last thing he thought of before he went to sleep was that if a torpedo were to go off beneath him he would be squashed into unpleasant flatness against that steel roof. Still, he went to sleep.

"I could hear the surgeon snoring in the next room," he said in explanation. "Very soothing."

Fiske is today a rear admiral of the United States navy and in command of the bureau of operations, which is being kept fairly busy during the present fracas with Mexico. What is of greater importance is the fact that he is the man to whom the recent great improvement in the world's naval gunnery is directly due. His stadimeter and range finder is in use on every modern warship in the world. He is the Edison of war afloat.

Fiske began inventing things when he was but an ensign. He was born in Lyons, N. Y., in 1854, and graduated second in his class at the Naval Academy in 1874. Every now and then he would think of something to invent. But while he was at work upon it he would be sent where a workshop could not be found with a search warrant, and a drawing board had never been heard of. That is the usual lot of young officers, but not all young officers had the excellent reason for desiring to stay put that Fiske had. Finally he became discouraged. Then the possibility of a war with Spain began to loom up. His application was refused.

He had already roughly developed his stadimeter and path finder. When the battle order was displayed in Manila bay Fiske was filled with the enthusiasm of the true inventor. In order to test his invention he obtained permission to lash a basket to the foremast of the Petrel, which was not provided with accommodations for officers who wanted to be out in the open during a battle. There, with his orderly, to whom he dictated observations, he sat happily through the fight. Even in its crude form his device worked successfully. Between observations he noticed that the hydraulic devices which were depended on to turn the turrets were not altogether satisfactory. That pleased him. He had an electrical turret turning motor on the fire.

THE WORK OF A CITY COLLEGE

Those in charge of the College of the City of New York are wise in their plan to extend the usefulness of that institution. One evidence of this is the establishment in different boroughs of junior departments covering the first two years of the course. The object is to keep pace with the expansion of the city and extend its benefits to youth whose distance from the site of the college makes it costly or impracticable to go there regularly. This is a new way of taking the college to the people and it gives the opportunity for higher education to many who otherwise would not think of it or would not be able to do so. There must be in a city which covers so large an area as New York many young men who would like to attend. But they have not the money or the time to go to the institution regularly though they could attend if it were located near their homes. These are the youth to whom this college is now catering and the departure is destined beyond doubt to become one of the most important steps it has taken during the years of its useful existence.

The college is going out to the teachers also through the medium of its extension courses or university lectures. These are given every year and more than [illegible]00 adults, mostly teachers, enroll in them annually. This means better teachers because of the instruction they receive in these courses and better schools because of the greater knowledge these teachers have gained. Thus the college reacts in a practical and useful way upon the public schools and the two institutions are working together in a manner which cannot fail to make an impress upon the city's youth and children. The college in a word is making itself an ideal institution of the people and for the people. That is the real function of a city college and this New York institution is fulfilling that function admirably.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE [illegible]

Some time ago a letter was published purporting to be sent out by the Kentucky Distillers' Distributing Company to Keeley institutes [illegible] to sell them [illegible] 000 addresses [illegible] [illegible]

[illegible] preachers but would it be fair to charge the rank and file of ministers with the sins of a small minority? That is not in the slightest degree like the case of which the Model License League is complaining. If we had spoken of the distillers as a set of drunkards because a few distillers too liberally patronize their own goods the analogy of the Western paper which is seeking to blacken the reputation of clergymen would have been obvious but our article contained no reflection upon distillers. It did not charge anything upon the producers of liquors or their purveyors except that some of them recognized the relation between the production of liquor and the patronage of Keeley Institutes. We presume the relation will not be denied. We do not suppose the National Model License League would say that over-eating or excessive tea drinking or cigarettes or reading books printed in fine type provides the Keeley Institutes with their customers.

One would have expected the National Model License League to ignore that circular about our customers are your patients and hope it would be forgotten.

Let us turn from a rather silly complaint followed by an argument against prohibition which was not discussed at all in the article of which complaint is made to the latest news from the world-wide war against alcohol. Within a few days the Austrian ministry of war has ordered a comprehensive and searching investigation of the effects of alcohol on the fighting strength of the empire. The Russian ministry of war has been publishing in its official organ a series of articles designed to arouse officers and the public on the subject of the injury to the army through the present use of distilled liquors. In order to discourage this the Czar has ordered commanding officers to discontinue the time-honored practice of drinking to his health at the head of each corps on the conclusion of military manoeuvres. He has charged his ministers to find some means of repressing the common use of spirits.

The Kaiser of Germany recently told a body of naval cadets that the use of alcohol makes hand and eye less accurate and steady, and that the next war will be won by the nation which drinks the least alcohol. He is said as the result of some experiments upon himself as well as general observation of his people and his army, to have recently dispensed with the wine which he had always been accustomed to drink with his meals. Two months ago a Berlin despatch said the great development of athletic sports in Germany was causing a great reduction in beer consumption. Thousands of young men in training for the Olympic games two years hence are directed by their trainers to drink less beer and their interest in athletics is making them do so while many of them do not stop with reducing the amount but have given up beer entirely.

In the United States the temperance or total abstinence movement is mainly religious its backing being chiefly from the churches. In Europe it is the work of physicians, hygienists, statesmen, monarchs, commanders of the army and navy. Not all of these are total abstainers but most of the men in Europe eminent in science and in public life who are trying to save their fellow countrymen from alcoholism compromise on no halfway measure. In one of the Dutch or Finnish universities a professor is at the head of a flourishing body of students pledged to total abstinence from alcohol, tobacco and sensuality.

It may interest the Kentucky distillers and the National Model License League to notice that it is the increasing use of distilled liquors which accounts for the aggressive temperance movement not only in this country but in nearly every nation of Europe. Where the universally used alcoholic beverages were beer and wine there was occasional drunkenness but neither church nor science nor military discipline felt impelled to urge total abstinence. Individual lapses from sobriety but not constitutional [illegible] of distilled liquors very much stronger in alcohol is impairing the physique [illegible] of European armies and the [illegible] is the reply to the increasing [illegible] success of distilled [illegible]

Even in ultra Boston in the Back Bay's exclusive precincts the most [illegible] is moving. The new shown [illegible] Channing Memorial, which was to commemorate [illegible] freedom of thought and speech [illegible] was turned into a theatre, the [illegible] Memorial, which [illegible] Boston's apostle Theodore Parker [illegible] [illegible] evening dress [illegible] [illegible] Christian Science church. Will [illegible]

The anti-prohibitionists are [illegible] to marshal their forces against the [illegible] of the prohibition [illegible] amendment resolution [illegible] Congress. Hundreds of [illegible] have been received [illegible] of the House asking [illegible] the resolution and [illegible] will be wasted [illegible] its passage. Many of the [illegible] would [illegible] exactly this [illegible] evidence [illegible] been part of a concerted movement against the Hobson bill. This sudden activity is undoubtedly due to the probability that the Democratic caucus called to decide upon a legislative program with regard to the administration anti-trust measures and the rural credits bills will also take action upon the prohibition measure.

The War Department is showing its first handling of the war correspondent under the new conditions and the man to be made an example happens to be a retired army officer. This correspondent not only went into the enemy's lines without permission but had failed to secure permission to leave this country or take employment. He is under arrest and will be sent home at once with a court martial staring him in the face. Had he been just a plain correspondent he would have been under General Funston's orders.

There are unquestionably many places in Newport as in every city which need to be cleaned up. We are to have a whole week this year in which to rid ourselves of the nuisances and menaces to health and property lurking in back yards, unoccupied lots, on the wharves and in the rear of business buildings many of which are plainly seen not only by the neighbors but by passers by. There should be hearty co-operation of all classes to rid the city of these plague spots.

Really the trees, shrubs and flowers do not need any more moisture. The rapidity with which they came out during the three days of warmer weather shows conclusively that they need sunshine. And the trees and flowers are not alone in this desire.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT MEXICO.

Climate Affected by Elevations Ranging From Sea Level to High Altitudes.

Original Territory Equaled That of United States, But Was Reduced by Texas Secession

The federal district of Mexico somewhat resembles the District of Columbia but is eight times greater in extent. The railroad route from Vera Cruz to Mexico City 264 miles which will be taken by General Funston if he is called upon to lead an attack on the Mexican capital follows closely the trail followed by General Winfield Scott with his American troops in 1847. These are among some interesting facts about Mexico supplied by the National Geographic Society.

It is interesting to note that the area of Mexico is practically as great as that of the United States between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic coast, the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico varying in altitude from sea level to 18 000 feet. Its climate is affected by these elevations and by a range of 18 degrees of latitude. Twelve hundred miles is the distance traversed in passing south from Juarez on the northern boundary to the capital and 900 miles more to the southeastern boundary. The Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean sea coast line extends for 1 700 miles while the Pacific ocean and Gulf of California touch 4 000 miles of Mexican coast.

Prior to 1836 Mexico as a Spanish colony and the United States covered approximately equal areas but the Texas secession and the result of the Mexican war added nearly 1 000 000 square miles to our territory and the extent of Mexico now is less than one fourth that of continental United States. Mexico has still territorial expanse equal to the aggregate of Austria-Hungary, Germany, France, Great Britain and Ireland. The total area of the republic 767 000 square miles is less than that of Texas, California, Montana, New Mexico and Arizona combined.

The average density of population of Mexico approximates 20 per square mile the most thickly populated portions outside the federal district being the states of Tlaxcala and Mexico, the former being less than Delaware in size and of about the same density of population and the latter being nearly as large as New Hampshire but with more than twice the number of inhabitants. The federal district modeled after the District of Columbia but of eight times greater area is surrounded by the state of Mexico; the large population of the capital 470 000 materially aiding in bringing the average to more than 1,200 per square mile.

During nearly 300 years subsequent to the conquest by Cortes Spain dominated Mexico. A century ago a bold effort for freedom was started which eventually resulted in the republic of Mexico of today. More than half of the first century of Mexican independence was abortive, one coterie after another coming into temporary power and a number of those acclaimed rulers after brief regimes meeting ignominious death at the hands of the people they sought to govern.

The form of government adopted by Mexico follows in general that of the United States having executive, judicial and legislative divisions. Each of the 27 states is represented in two houses of congress composed of senators and deputies. Congress holds two sessions each year for limited periods. Each state has its governor and legislature and is sub-divided into districts or counties over each of which a jefe politico is placed, the districts having subsidiary municipalities with magistrates presiding officials and councils.

The so called autocratic feature of the government may be largely due to the fact that governors hold office with approval of the president, that jefe politicos have similar relations with the governors and that the officers of the municipalities are generally controlled by the jefe politicos.

The church and state are independent and congress cannot pass laws prohibiting or establishing any religion. Of the 16 000 000 inhabitants two fifths claim direct descent from ancient tribes or families which are accepted as the basis of Mexican history, two fifths are of mixed native and foreign blood, the remainder being classed under the common appellation of foreign.

The City of Mexico 264 miles by rail west of Vera Cruz and 7 400 feet altitude is reached by two rail routes climbing from the hot lands through difficult mountain passes, one of which closely follows the trail taken by Cortes in 1519, by General Winfield Scott with American troops in 1847, and over which 15 years later, the invading French troops passed. It is the most populous city. One half of the railroad mileage of the country is between sea level and 5 000 feet, and about an equal amount between 5 000 and 10,000 feet.

THE BRITISH LINE-UP.

Lord Wimborne to Bring Polo Players to America This Month

Lord Wimborne put an end to all uncertainty regarding the British polo team Monday night by definitely announcing the line up and the players he will bring to America this month. The team will be:

Mr Tomkinson No 1, Major J. Y. D Bingham No 2, Major F. W Barrett No 3, Major C. P Hunter back and Lord Wimborne as reserve. Lady Wimborne will accompany the team which will leave by the Carmania May 23. The ponies will go by the Minneapolis next Saturday.

"When I found difficulty in making the final arrangement" he said "I asked the Hurlingham Club to come to my assistance and see if it could be successful in getting the best team together. It decided to invite Lord Wodehouse and Captain Cheape to go. The former declined, but Captain Cheape did not reply. Thereupon the club asked Mr Buckmaster who after discussing it very fully declined.

"I have felt in view of the disappointment that would ensue in America if no team went over it would be better for the team to go as it was. It is not a bad combination and one cannot say it has absolutely no chance of winning though in some respects it may not represent the best possibilities of English polo."

That Captain Buckmaster's team is a much better one Lord Wimborne frankly admitted. "That team" he said "would I believe stand an excellent chance of re capturing the cup. It undoubtedly is the best in England. I did my best in a long conference with Buckmaster to persuade him to let his team take the place of mine and play for the cup, but to my great regret he could not see his way to do it."

THE WORK OF A CITY COLLEGE.

Those in charge of the College of the City of New York are wise in their plan to extend the usefulness of that institution. One evidence of this is the establishment in different boroughs of junior departments covering the first two years of the course. The object is to keep pace with the expansion of the city and extend its benefits to youth whose distance from the site of the college makes it too costly or impracticable to get there regularly. This is a new way of taking the college to the people, and it gives the opportunity for higher education to many who otherwise would not think of securing it or would not be able to do so. There must be in a city which covers so large an area as New York many young men who would like to attend college but have not the money or the time to go to the institution regularly, though they could attend it if it were located near their homes. These are the youth to whom this college is now catering and the departure is destined beyond doubt to be one of the most important steps it has taken during the years of its useful existence.

The college is going out to the teachers also, through the medium of its extension courses or university lectures. These are given every year and more than 2,500 adults, mostly teachers, enroll in them annually. This means better teachers, because of the instruction they receive in these courses, and better schools, because of the greater knowledge these teachers have gained. Thus the college reacts in a practical and useful way upon the public schools and the two institutions are working together in a manner which cannot fail to make an impress upon the city's youth and children. The college in a word is making itself an ideal institution of the people and for the people. That is the real function of a city college and this New York institution is fulfilling that function admirably.

THE KEELEY INSTITUTE PATIENTS.

Some time ago a letter was published purporting to be sent out by the Kentucky Distillers' Distributing Company to Keeley Institutes, offering to sell them 50,000 addresses of steady drinkers, because "our customers are your patients." The grim humor of the thing was commented on in these columns, as it was in other newspapers. Thereupon the president of the National Model License League felt aggrieved, and he has written to us that our article "does very great injustice to the distillers of Kentucky"; that the Kentucky Distillers' Distributing Company is a Kansas City, and not a Kentucky, concern, and that it was a mushroom affair and had proved unsuccessful.

We can readily understand why distillers, in Kentucky or elsewhere, should fail to see any humor in that sentence: "Our customers are your patients." Of course it wouldn't strike them as it would many other people. Yet we are quite unable to see why the National Model License League should desire to refresh the public recollection of that epigram or what injustice has been done to the Kentucky distillers.

We presume it will not be denied that the patients at the Keeley Institutes have been injured as customers of the distillers. A brief illustration might have answered that purpose without laying himself open to attack, and if one single distiller had used it in advertising a list of addresses the error would have been just as apparent as though it had been used in an official organ of the liquor trade. Wherever the epigram was offered it would have attracted attention and required comment. The difficulty in dealing with the National Model License League is the difficulty of understanding what its objection is.

There is a paper out in the West [illegible] the prestige of the [illegible] [illegible] things showing the misdeeds of preachers, but would it be fair to charge the rank and file of ministers with the sins of a small minority? That is not in the slightest degree like the case of which the Model License League is complaining. If we had spoken of the distillers as a set of drunkards because a few distillers too liberally patronize their own goods the analogy of the Western paper which is seeking to blacken the reputation of clergymen would have been obvious, but our article contained no reflection upon distillers. It did not charge anything upon the producers of liquors or their purveyors, except that some of them recognized the relation between the production of liquor and the patronage of Keeley Institutes. We presume the relation will not be denied. We do not suppose the National Model License League would say that over-eating, or excessive tea drinking, or cigarettes, or reading books printed in fine type, provides the Keeley Institutes with their customers.

One would have expected the National Model License League to ignore that circular about "our customers are your patients," and hope it would be forgotten.

Let us turn from a rather silly complaint, followed by an argument against prohibition, which was not discussed at all in the article of which complaint is made, to the latest news from the world-wide war against alcohol. Within a few days the Austrian ministry of war has ordered a comprehensive and searching investigation of the effects of alcohol on the fighting strength of the empire. The Russian ministry of war has been publishing in its official organ a series of articles designed to arouse officers and the public on the subject of the injury to the army through the present use of distilled liquors. In order to discourage this, the Czar has ordered commanding officers to discontinue the time-honored practice of drinking to his health at the head of each corps on the conclusion of military manoeuvres. He has charged his ministers to find some means of repressing the common use of spirits.

The Kaiser of Germany recently told a body of naval cadets that the use of alcohol makes hand and eye less accurate and steady, and that the next war will be won by the nation which drinks the least alcohol. He is said, as the result of some experiments upon himself, as well as general observation of his people and his army, to have recently dispensed with the wine which he had always been accustomed to drink with his meals. Two months ago a Berlin despatch said the great development of athletic sports in Germany was causing a great reduction in beer consumption. Thousands of young men in training for the Olympic games two years hence are directed by their trainers to drink less beer, and their interest in athletics is making them do so, while many of them do not stop with reducing the amount but have given up beer entirely.

In the United States the temperance, or total abstinence, movement is mainly religious, its backing being chiefly from the churches. In Europe it is the work of physicians, hygienists, statesmen, monarchs, commanders of the army and navy. Not all of these are total abstainers but most of the men in Europe, eminent in science and in public life, who are trying to save their fellow-countrymen from alcoholism, compromise on no halfway measure. In one of the Polish or Finnish universities a professor is at the head of a formidable body of students pledged to total abstinence from alcohol, tobacco and sensuality.

It may interest the Kentucky distillers and the National Model License League to notice that it is the increasing use of distilled liquors which accounts for the aggressive temperance movement, not only in this country but in nearly every nation of Europe. Where the universally used alcoholic beverages were beer and wine there was occasional drunkenness, but neither church, nor science, nor military discipline, felt impelled to urge total abstinence. Individual lapses from sobriety did not constitute a national evil. The increased use of distilled liquors, very much stronger in alcohol, is impairing the physique of the material for European armies and the "water wagon," voluntary or enforced, is the reply to the increasing enterprise and success of distillers.

Even in ultra-Boston, in the Back Bay's exclusive precincts, the insidious "movie" has now shown its head. The "Paine Memorial," which was to commemorate "Tom" Paine's "freedom" of thought and speech, long ago was turned into a theatre; the "Parker Memorial," which recalled Boston's apostle, Theodore Parker, has also lost its prestige. Now the home of lofty spirits has "cashed in" its lofty temple for spirit manifestation, in the heart of the Back Bay, at the corner of Newbury and Exeter streets, and it is turned into the "Exeter street theatre." How have the mighty fallen! The fact that the Back Bayites appeared in evening dress does not alter the other fact that the "temple" is now devoted to "movies" and vaudeville, at popular prices. The next title seems now almost up to the Christian Science Church. Will Boston rally to keep that?

The anti-prohibitionists are beginning to marshal their forces against the passage of the prohibition constitutional amendment resolutions now before Congress. Hundreds of letters and telegrams have been received by members of the House, asking them to vote against the resolution, and a bitter war will be waged to prevent its passage. Many of the telegrams are worded exactly alike and gave evidence of being part of a concerted movement against the Hobson bill. This sudden activity is undoubtedly due to the probability that the Democratic caucus called to decide upon a legislative program with regard to the administration anti-trust measures and the rural credits bills will also take action upon the prohibition measure.

The War Department is showing its first handling of the "war correspondent" under the new conditions, and the man to be made an example happens to be a retired army officer. This correspondent not only went into the enemy's lines without permission, but had failed to secure permission to leave this country or take employment. He is under arrest and will be sent home at once, with a court-martial staring him in the face. Had he been just a plain correspondent he would have been under General Funston's orders.

There are unquestionably many places in Newport as in every city, which need to be cleaned up. We are to have a whole week this year in which to rid ourselves of the nuisances and menaces to health and property lurking in backyards, unoccupied lots, on the wharves and in the rear of business buildings, many of which are plainly seen, not only by the neighbors but by passers-by. There should be hearty co-operation of all classes to rid the city of these plague spots.

Really the trees, shrubs and flowers do not need any more moisture. The rapidity with which they came out during the three days of warmer weather shows conclusively that they need sunshine. And the trees and flowers are not alone in this desire.

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT MEXICO.

Original Territory Equaled That of United States, But Was Reduced by Texas Secession.

The federal district of Mexico somewhat resembles the District of Columbia, but is eight times greater in extent. The railroad route from Vera Cruz to Mexico City, 264 miles, which will be taken by General Funston if he is called upon to lead an attack on the Mexican capital, follows closely the trail followed by General Winfield Scott with his American troops in 1847. These are among some interesting facts about Mexico supplied by the National Geographic Society:

It is interesting to note that the area of Mexico is practically as great as that of the United States between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic coast, the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico, varying in altitude from sea level to 18,000 feet. Its climate is affected by these elevations and by a range of 18 degrees of latitude. Twelve hundred miles is the distance traversed in passing south from Juarez, on the northern boundary, to the capital, and 900 miles more to the southeastern boundary. The Gulf of Mexico and Caribbean sea coast line extends for 1,700 miles, while the Pacific ocean and Gulf of California touch 4,000 miles of Mexican coast.

Prior to 1836, Mexico, as a Spanish colony, and the United States covered approximately equal areas, but the Texas secession and the result of the Mexican war added nearly 1,000,000 square miles to our territory, and the extent of Mexico now is less than one fourth that of continental United States. Mexico has still territorial expanse equal to the aggregate of Austria-Hungary, Germany, France, Great Britain and Ireland. The total area of the republic, 767,000 square miles, is less than that of Texas, California, Montana, New Mexico and Arizona combined.

The average density of population of Mexico approximates 20 per square mile, the most thickly populated portions, outside the federal district, being the states of Tlaxcala and Mexico, the former being less than Delaware in size and of about the same density of population, and the latter being nearly as large as New Hampshire, but with more than twice the number of inhabitants. The federal district, modeled after the District of Columbia, but of eight times greater area, is surrounded by the state of Mexico, the large population of the capital 470,000, materially aiding in bringing the average to more than 1,200 per square mile.

During nearly 300 years subsequent to the conquest by Cortes, Spain dominated Mexico. A century ago a bold effort for freedom was started, which eventually resulted in the republic of Mexico of today. More than half of the first century of Mexican independence was abortive, one coterie after another coming into temporary power, and a number of those acclaimed rulers, after brief regimes, meeting ignominous death at the hands of the people they sought to govern.

The form of government adopted by Mexico follows in general that of the United States, having executive, judicial and legislative divisions. Each of the 27 states is represented in two houses of congress, composed of senators and deputies. Congress holds two sessions each year for limited periods. Each state has its governor and legislature, and is sub-divided into districts, or counties, over each of which a "jefe politico" is placed, the districts having subsidiary municipalities with magistrates, presiding officials and councils.

The so-called autocratic feature of the government may be largely due to the fact that governors hold office with approval of the president, that jefe politicos have similar relations with the goverors, and that the officers of the municipalities are generally controlled by the jefe politicos.

The church and state are independent, and congress cannot pass laws prohibiting or establishing any religion. Of the 16,000,000 inhabitants two fifths claim direct descent from ancient tribes or families which are accepted as the basis of Mexican history, two fifths are of mixed native and foreign blood, the remainder being classed under the common appellation of "foreign."

The City of Mexico, 264 miles by rail west of Vera Cruz, and 7,400 feet altitude, is reached by two rail routes, climbing from the hot lands through difficult mountain passes, one of which closely follows the trail taken by Cortes in 1519, by General Winfield Scott with American troops in 1847, and over which, 15 years later, the invading French troops passed. It is the most populous city. One half of the railroad mileage of the country is between sea level and 5,000 feet, and about an equal amount between 5,000 and 10,000 feet.

THE BRITISH LINE-UP.

Lord Wimborne to Bring Polo Players to America This Month

Lord Wimborne put an end to all uncertainty regarding the British polo team Monday night, by definitely announcing the line-up and the players he will bring to America this month. The team will be:

Mr. Tomkinson, No. 1; Major J. Y. D. Bingham, No. 2; Major F. W. Barrett, No. 3; Major C. F. Hunter, back, and Lord Wimborne as reserve. Lady Wimborne will accompany the team, which will leave by the Carmania May 23. The ponies will go by the Minneapolis next Saturday.

"When I found difficulty in making the final arrangement," he said, "I asked the Hurlingham Club to come to my assistance and see if it could be successful in getting the best team together. It decided to invite Lord Wodehouse and Captain Cheape to go. The former declined, but Captain Cheape did not reply. Thereupon the club asked Mr. Buckmaster, who, after discussing it very fully, declined.

"I have felt, in view of the disappointment that would ensue in America if no team went over, it would be better for the team to go as it was. It is not a bad combination, and one cannot say it has absolutely no chance of winning, though in some respects it may not represent the best possibilities of English polo."

That Captain Buckmaster's team is a much better one Lord Wimborne frankly admitted. "That team," he said, "would, I believe, stand an excellent chance of re-capturing the cup. It undoubtedly is the best in England. I did my best in a long conference with Buckmaster to persuade him to let his team take the place of mine and play for the cup, but to my great regret he could not see his way to do it."

Recreation Commission to Have Vernon Avenue Playground Cared For.

Monday evening was one of activity on the part of various city bodies. The School Committee held its monthly meeting, the Recreation Commission held a session in the mayor's office, the aldermanic committees on new police station and on widening Bath road met in the city clerk's office, and to help things the committee on the Easton's Beach creek bridge held a meeting at the city solicitor's office all in one evening.

The Recreation Commission listened for an hour to a talk by Mr. Daniel J. The new board, being of course without experience, wishes to secure some points and Mr. Kelley seemed to be the man to help. The feeling is that he did help.

It was decided to hire a man to take care of the Vernon Avenue playground. He is to care for the ground, seeing that it is kept up, and also be on hand at all times to see that things go on right—not an instructor but a ground keeper and caretaker in every way. It is believed that what is done this year will be to the Vernon Avenue ground,as it is evident that not much can be done to the other until it is drained. Later when it dries up, it will be rolled and the grass will be cut so that the boys can play on it. That is about all that can be done at present.

CHILLY AND DISCOURAGING.

Rain Starts Monday Night and Prospects Good for Two More Days.

The weather man was right. It began raining Monday night about 7:40 and it looks as if it were good for two more days. It has not rained much, but the northeast blow is chilly and discouraging.

Still, the three days of sunshine worked wonders with vegetation. The last of the tulip beds in the Mall has blossomed, the jail "daffy" beds are all a-bloom, and grass is growing so fast that the lawn mowers are becoming discouraged. The horsechestnuts and lilacs look as if they would shortly bloom and all trees and bushes and plants have a decidedly changed appearance, all because of the three days that were unseasonable—for this season.

FISH NOT EASILY CAUGHT.

Large Quantities of Scup Make Heavy Shipments to New York.

The fishermen are having a hard time today. A strong easterly wind and heavy sea makes pulling the traps almost impossible and so strings the traps out that fish are not caught. Most of the steamers had a long lay-off off Castle Hill, waiting for it to moderate, and it was agreed that it grew worse rather than more moderate.

The Montauk, of the Fisheries Company, had 20 barrels of scup; Ollie Hicks had 5 and about 8 of squid, F. W. Lawton 6 of tautog, 10 of squid and about half a barrel of scup.

Monday there was something in the scup line. The Fisheries Company had about 120 barrels, the Seaconnet River Oyster Company 56, Macomber & Nickerson 62 and C. B. Anderson 15. Others had smaller quantities. There was also a large quantity of other fish, so that the shipments were large. About 180 barrels of scup went to New York.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The water works is arranging for a new standpipe to replace the one on Howland avenue, which has done duty more than 20 years, and is showing the results of wear. Several small leaks have appeared during the winter and while they have been easily stopped, a more serious one is feared.

Mrs. W. M. Barber was operated upon at the Newport Hospital Monday for appendicitis and gall stones. The operation was successful and the patient withstood the shock well.

C. E. Weeden has rented for Captain S. Rousseau his furnished cottage on Shoreby hill to Miss Edith King of New York for the season.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Rev. F. W. Goodwin of St. Mary's, Portsmouth, has gone to New York.

—Mr. Max Levy is confined to his home with what feels like the grip.

—Captain Gail A. Hand has arrived from New York to put the Sparrow fleet in commission for the coming Jamestown season.

—Mr. A. W. Weld's yawl Pawnee has been rigged at the shipyard and is ready to be hauled out and painted. It looks like an early start this season.

—The Resolute did not take a spin Monday, because some changes in rig were made, and today the dampness was too great. It really looks bad for tomorrow.

—Street Commissioner Hamilton has two cars of dustoline on hand and no weather in which to use it. If the sun would come out for a few days he could do something.

—James Rotonie, a recent contestant in the civil service examination has received an appointment as messeger at the Torpedo Station. His age prevents a higher appointment at present, but he is now in line for a clerkship.

—Steam yacht Aloha sailed early this morning for New London, where she will take on board Professor Todd and a party of college students for New York and a short cruise. The yacht was at her winter berth here about 24 hours.

—Professor Commette will take Master Fogarty of the St. Mary's choir to Providence Monday and the boy will sing in the concert arranged by Father Phelan. Young Fogarty has made a fine record while singing in St. Mary's choir under the direction of Professor Commette.

—Rev. John H. Marron of La Salle Academy preached to the members of the St. Joseph's Holy Name Society Monday evening, taking his text from Paul's Epistle to Titus II:7: "In all things showing thyself a pattern of good works." The sermon was an exemplification of the duties of members of the society. There were about 50 men present.

FORCED TO LEAVE ALL BEHIND.

Placed in Jail "for His Own Protection" and Sent Out of Mexico.

Mr. Chester E. Peckham, a former Newporter, and once a carrier for the Daily News, who has been in Mexico for the past 10 years and is one of a number of refugees who were driven out of that country by the Federals shortly after the Americans landed at Vera Cruz, arrived here today by rail from New Orleans and is visiting his sister Mrs. Clark Burdick. He does not know how long he will stay, but is ready to go back to resume his former occupation as soon as conditions permit Americans to live there in peace and quiet.

For the past seven years he has been engaged as engineer in a sugar house owned and operated by Chicago planters at Motzorongo, about 70 miles from Vera Cruz, and had no trouble until the Americans landed at Vera Cruz April 20 last. As soon as news of the landing reached the locality all Americans and foreigners were forced by the Federals to leave their homes and works, without time to gather all their belongings. Placed in a box car, they were taken to Cordoba, where they were put in jail to await the collection of other refugees. They were told that they were imprisoned for their own protection, but there were armed guards in the small jails and large crowds outside shouting death to the foreigners.

The number in the jail was increased as other foreigners were gathered until there were 103 of them—men, women and children, some of whom had been kept in close confinement from April 22 to 27. On the latter date they were let out of the jail and told that they were to be sent to Vera Cruz under guard. Later they were taken to Soledad, the headquarters of General Maas, where they were kept all night, suffering all sorts of insults. The train was attacked by the Mexicans, who threw rocks into the cars, none of which fortunately hit any of the prisoners.

Starting the next morning on the way to Vera Cruz, they were overtaken by a special train on which Captain Sweeney of an English battleship was proceeding, and his train took the refugees to Tejeria, whence they walked 10 miles to Vera Cruz. There they boarded steamer Esperanza, which left Vera Cruz May 1.

In all there were 600 refugees on the Esperanza, which had not sufficient accommodations for all and many were compelled to sleep on the decks. The steamer arrived at quarantine at New Orleans May 4 and was detained until the seventh, when the refugees were landed. At New Orleans they were fitted out with suitable clothing and started on their way to various parts of the country, to their homes and families.

The Federals, under General Huerta, are driving all foreigners, often at the point of rifles, out of Mexco and many are leaving so quickly that they have no time to bring together their clothing and personal belongings. Mr. Peckham says he had a watch in Mexico, but was compelled to leave so quickly that he came away without it. He was obliged to leave behind practically everything he owned.

The feeling among Americans and foreigners in Mexico, he says, is that the United States government is largely to blame for the present trouble, and that if President Wilson had recognized Huerta as president in the beginning there would have been no occasion now for the American troops to land in Mexico.

TWO BATTLESHIPS ASSURED

Senate Committee Adds to the Naval Appropriation Bill.

Calling for nearly $141,000,000, the naval appropriation bill, which has passed the house, was ordered reported by the Senate committee on naval affairs Monday. The bill appropriated $140,800,000 last year. The Senate committee has added approximately $1,000,000 to the House bill. The building program, as adopted by the House, was left intact. As the bill will be reported it will have an appropriation for two battleships, eight submarines and six destroyers.

An interesting feature of the action of the committee was the determined attempt made by some Senators to increase the number of battleships. A motion for an increase to four was lost by a margin of two votes. A motion was then made to make the number three, and on this the vote was a tie. A compromise was then agreed upon for two big vessels. This assures the adoption of a two-battleship program beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The provision for increasing the chaplains' corps was re-inserted. This had been knocked out on a point of order in the House.

Another provision restored was that permitting the Secretary of the Navy to designate a certain number of enlisted men each year to the Naval Academy.

The appropriations for an extension of the powder plant at Indian Head, Md., and for a government contract for a dry dock at Hunters' Point, Cal., were restored. A new feature of the bill is an authorization of a $3,000,000 dry dock at Norfolk, Va., with an initial appropriation of $200,000.

A project for the expenditure of $600,000 for a breakwater at Key West, Fla., also was inserted, with an initial appropriation of $100,000. The theory of the breakwater is that it will make Key West a base for torpedo boats. At present torpedo boats at Key West have to get under way in heavy weather in order to avoid being blown ashore. This project has never been estimated for by the Navy Department.

COMMANDER PARMENTER VOLUNTEERS.

Another of Newport's sons is volunteering for the war. Commander Henry E. Parmenter, U. S. N. (retired), has reported to the Secretary of the Navy his willingness to resume active duty. He has had much experience in special duty at various navy yards, one point of his record being the invention of a valuable machine for making anchor chains, superior to those made formerly at much expenditure of time and severe labor. For some time after he asked to be retired he was retained on special duty. Commander and Mrs. Parmenter have been residing in Boston several years.

BROTHERHOOD OFFICERS.

Bradley Chapter Addressed by the New Pastor, Rev. W. I. Ward.

The annual meeting of Bradley Chapter, Methodist Brotherhood, was held Monday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, with President Kaull in the chair. Reports were received showing the progress of the work during the year and officers were elected as follows:

President—T. Fred Kaull.
First Vice President—George B. Popple.
Second Vice President—Arnold H. James.
Third Vice President—Edward O. Riggs.
Fourth Vice President—Charles H. Taber.
Secretary—Ralph H. Rhodes.
Treasurer—Theophilus Topham.
Chaplain—Rev. William I. Ward.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a brief address was given by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Ward, on the objects and usefulness of the Brotherhood. In his talk he emphasized the modern thought that religion is a man's job; that the church needs the work of men, and that in turn men need the service which the church alone can give them.

Light refreshments were served by the committee and the social hour was unusually well prolonged.

BIG FOUR WIN OUT.

"Monte" Waterbury Has a Fall During Polo Game at Westbury.

The big four polo team of the Meadow Brook club Monday evening at Westbury, Long Island, defeated six other players of the same club by 7½ to 1¾ goals. The game was well played, notwithstanding the one-sided score. The ponies seemed to realize that they were on their home ground, for they displayed better form than at Lakewood.

H. C. Phipps played forward for the big four. He was quick and active and acquitted himself with credit. His form is so good that indications point to his being chosen for No. 1 on the international defending team against the Englishmen.

In the fith period "Monte" Waterbury's pony, Vista, slipped, and both pony and rider fell. Mr. Waterbury quickly jumped to his feet and continued in the game after a 10-minute wait.

FINAL MEETINGS SATURDAY

Prize for Study on "Famous Newporters" Awarded at Carey League.

At the meeting of the Carey League of Good Citizenship Monday afternoon, Mrs. R. R. Belknap in charge, the prize given by the Civic League for the best kept notebooks on the subject, "Famous Newporters," which has been studied during the year was awarded to Edward Brown, with honorable mention to Mary Tammany. Fourteen members of the league won the distinction of being placed on the roll of honor. Seeds were distributed to the members.

The League of Good Citizenship in the other schools of the city will hold their final meetings of the year during the week when similar prizes and honors will be awarded in each league, and Saturday afternoon the members of the several leagues will meet at the Civic League House where banners for the best attendance will be awarded.

TEN DAYS' LEAVE FOR ORDINARY SEAMEN.

No new cases of measles were reported at the Training Station today, but since the ordinary seamen are not now available for sea duty, because of a case breaking out in their ranks, 250 of them who have not before enjoyed leave have been given 10 days. While some left for their homes today, the majority will leave on the New York boat tonight. In all, 210 boys are booked to take the steamer down the Sound. Upon their return it is hoped that the quarantine at the Station will have been lifted and they will be available for draft to ships.

NEW NAVAL DEFENSE MINE.

Charles R. Gabriel and Captain Karlo Leon of the Swedish navy are here, representing the Bliss-Leavitt Torpedo Company, and are today explaining to Commander J. K. Robinson and officers of the Torpedo Station a naval defense mine of which Captain Leon is the inventor. There are four of the mines at the Station in boxes, awaiting breaking out for trial, but this morning the examination of blue prints were considered the first necessity.

Under the terms of the Peace Conference at the Hague the naval mine must have someotherrecommendation than that of ability to blow up ships if they are hit. The powers of the world are no longer permitted to plant these machines so that they may destroy non-combatant ships and lives, perhaps long after the war is over. The mine of today must show certain features for the safeguarding of humanity, and if this type is to be adopted by the United States navy it must be proved to be in accord with the demands at the Hague conference.

BOAT PLANS CHANGED.

The Providence Stays on Line Until the Commonwealth is Repaired.

There will be no change of boats at New York today and steamer Providence will continue on the line possibly another week, as it is now calculated that the Commonwealth will be ready to go on the line a week from tonight. The plans outlined Monday were all right, but in going through Hell Gate the Commonwealth did what so many other ships have done, touched the rocks. Now, in addition to having her underbody painted, she is having new plates put in to replace those damaged. This will change the plans for the Priscilla and she will probably not go down until after the Commonwealth comes off the dry dock.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The water works is arranging for a new standpipe to replace the one on Howland avenue, which has done duty more than 20 years, and is showing the results of wear. Several small leaks have appeared during the winter and while they have been easily stopped, a more serious one is feared.

Mrs. W. M. Barber was operated upon at the Newport Hospital Monday for appendicitis and gall stones. The operation was successful and the patient withstood the shock well.

C. E. Weeden has rented for Captain S. Rousseau his furnished cottage on Shoreby hill to Miss Edith King of New York for the season.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Rev. F. W. Goodwin of St. Mary's, Portsmouth, has gone to New York.

—Mr. Max Levy is confined to his home with what feels like the grip.

—Captain Gall A. Hand has arrived from New York to put the Sparrow fleet in commission for the coming Jamestown season.

—Mr. A. W. Weld's yawl Pawnee has been rigged at the shipyard and is ready to be hauled out and painted. It looks like an early start this season.

—The Resolute did not take a spin Monday, because some changes in rig were made, and today the dampness was too great. It really looks bad for tomorrow.

—Street Commissioner Hamilton has two cars of dustoline on hand and no weather in which to use it. If the sun would come out for a few days he could do something.

—James Rotanie, a recent contestant in the civil service examination has received an appointment as messenger at the Torpedo Station. His age prevents a higher appointment at present, but he is now in line for a clerkship.

—Steam yacht Aloha sailed early this morning for New London, where she will take on board Professor Todd and a party of college students for New York and a short cruise. The yacht was at her winter berth here about 24 hours.

—Professor Commette will take Master Fogarty of the St. Mary's choir to Providence Monday and the boy will sing in the concert arranged by Father Phelan. Young Fogarty has made a fine record while singing in St. Mary's choir under the direction of Professor Commette.

—Rev. John H. Marron of La Salle Academy preached to the members of the St. Joseph's Holy Name Society Monday evening, taking his text from St. Paul's Epistle to Titus II:7: "In all things showing thyself a pattern of good works." The sermon was an exemplification of the duties of members of the society. There were about [illegible] men present.

FORCED TO LEAVE ALL BEHIND.

Placed in Jail "for His Own Protection" and Sent Out of Mexico.

Mr. Chester E. Peckham, a former Newporter, and once a carrier for the Daily News, who has been in Mexico for the past 10 years and is one of a number of refugees who were driven out of that country by the Federals shortly after the Americans landed at Vera Cruz, arrived here today by rail from New Orleans and is visiting his sister Mrs. Clark Burdick. He does not know how long he will stay, but is ready to go back to resume his former occupation as soon as conditions permit Americans to live there in peace and quiet.

For the past seven years he has been engaged as engineer in a sugar house owned and operated by Chicago planters at Motzorongo, about 70 miles from Vera Cruz, and had no trouble until the Americans landed at Vera Cruz April 20 last. As soon as news of the landing reached the locality all Americans and foreigners were forced by the Federals to leave their homes and works, without time to gather all their belongings. Placed in a box car, they were taken to Cordoba, where they were put in jail to await the collection of other refugees. They were told that they were imprisoned for their own protection, but there were armed guards in the small jails and large crowds outside shouting death to the foreigners.

The number in the jail was increased as other foreigners were gathered until there were 103 of them—men, women and children, some of whom had been kept in close confinement from April 22 to 27. On the latter date they were let out of the jail and told that they were to be sent to Vera Cruz under guard. Later they were taken to Soledad, the headquarters of General Maas, where they were kept all night, suffering all sorts of insults. The train was attacked by the Mexicans, who threw rocks into the cars, none of which fortunately hit any of the prisoners.

Starting the next morning on the way to Vera Cruz, they were overtaken by a special train on which Captain Sweeney of an English battleship was proceeding, and his train took the refugees to Tejeria, whence they walked 10 miles to Vera Cruz. There they boarded steamer Esperanza, which left Vera Cruz May 1.

In all there were 600 refugees on the Esperanza, which had not sufficient accommodations for all and many were compelled to sleep on the decks. The steamer arrived at quarantine at New Orleans May 4 and was detained until the seventh, when the refugees were landed. At New Orleans they were fitted out with suitable clothing and started on their way to various parts of the country, to their homes and families.

The Federals, under General Huerta, are driving all foreigners, often at the point of rifles, out of Mexco and many are leaving so quickly that they have no time to bring together their clothing and personal belongings. Mr. Peckham says he had a watch in Mexico, but was compelled to leave so quickly that he came away without it. He was obliged to leave behind practically everything he owned.

The feeling among Americans and foreigners in Mexico, he says, is that the United States government is largely to blame for the present trouble, and that if President Wilson had recogonized Huerta as president in the beginning there would have been no occasion now for the American troops to land in Mexico.

TWO BATTLESHIPS ASSURED

Calling for nearly $141,000,000, the naval appropriation bill, which has passed the house, was ordered reported by the Senate committee on naval affairs Monday. The bill appropriated $140,800,000 last year. The Senate committee has added approximately $1,000,000 to the House bill. The building program, as adopted by the House, was left intact. As the bill will be reported it will have an appropriation for two battleships, eight submarines and six destroyers.

An interesting feature of the action of the committee was the determined attempt made by some Senators to increase the number of battleships. A motion for an increase to four was lost by a margin of two votes. A motion was then made to make the number three, and on this the vote was a tie. A compromise was then agreed upon for two big vessels. This assures the adoption of a two-battleship program beyond the shadow of a doubt.

The provision for increasing the chaplains' corps was re-inserted. This had been knocked out on a point of order in the House.

Another provision restored was that permitting the Secretary of the Navy to designate a certain number of enlisted men each year to the Naval Academy.

The appropriations for an extension of the powder plant at Indian Head, Md., and for a government contract for a dry dock at Hunters' Point, Cal., were restored. A new feature of the bill is an authorization of a $3,000,000 dry dock at Norfolk, Va., with an initial appropriation of $200,000.

A project for the expenditure of $600,000 for a breakwater at Key West, Fla., also was inserted, with an initial appropriation of $100,000. The theory of the breakwater is that it will make Key West a base for torpedo boats. At present torpedo boats at Key West have to get under way in heavy weather in order to avoid being blown ashore. This project has never been estimated for by the Navy Department.

COMMANDER PARMENTER VOLUNTEERS.

Another of Newport's sons is volunteering for the war. Commander Henry E. Parmenter, U. S. N. (retired), has reported to the Secretary of the Navy his willingness to resume active duty. He has had much experience in special duty at various navy yards, one point of his record being the invention of a valuable machine for making anchor chains, superior to those made formerly at much expenditure of time and severe labor. For some time after he asked to be retired he was retained on special duty. Commander and Mrs. Parmenter have been residing in Boston several years.

.BROTHERHOOD OFFICERS..

The annual meeting of Bradley Chapter, Methodist Brotherhood, was held Monday evening at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, with President Kaull in the chair. Reports were received showing the progress of the work during the year and officers were elected as follows:

President—T. Fred Kaull.
First Vice President—George B. Popple.
Second Vice President—Arnold H. James.
Third Vice President—Edward O. Riggs.
Fourth Vice President—Charles H. Taber.
Secretary—Ralph H. Rhodes.
Treasurer—Theophilus Topham.
Chaplain—Rev. William I. Ward.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a brief address was given by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Ward, on the objects and usefulness of the Brotherhood. In his talk he emphasized the modern thought that religion is a man's job; that the church needs the work of men, and that in turn men need the service which the church alone can give them.

Light refreshments were served by the committee and the social hour was unusually well prolonged.

BIG FOUR WIN OUT.

"Monte" Waterbury Has a Fall During Polo Game at Westbury.

The big four polo team of the Meadow Brook club Monday evening at Westbury, Long Island, defeated six other players of the same club by 7½ to 1¾ goals. The game was well played, notwithstanding the one-sided score. The ponies seemed to realize that they were on their home ground, for they displayed better form than at Lakewood.

H. C. Phipps played forward for the big four. He was quick and active and acquitted himself with credit. His form is so good that indications point to his being chosen for No. 1 on the international defending team against the Englishmen.

In the fifth period "Monte" Waterbury's pony, Vista, slipped, and both pony and rider fell. Mr. Waterbury quickly jumped to his feet and continued in the game after a 10-minute wait.

FINAL MEETINGS SATURDAY

Prize for Study on "Famous Newporters" Awarded at Carey League.

At the meeting of the Carey League of Good Citizenship Monday afternoon, Mrs. R. R. Belknap in charge, the prize given by the Civic League for the best kept notebooks on the subject, "Famous Newporters," which has been studied during the year was awarded to Edward Brown, with honorable mention to Mary Tammany. Fourteen members of the league won the distinction of being placed on the roll of honor. Seeds were distributed to the members.

The League of Good Citizenship in the other schools of the city will hold their final meetings of the year during the week when similar prizes and honors will be awarded in each league, and Saturday afternoon the members of the several leagues will meet at the Civic League House where banners for the best attendance will be awarded.

TEN DAYS' LEAVE FOR ORDINARY SEAMEN.

No new cases of measles were reported at the Training Station today, but since the ordinary seamen are not now available for sea duty, because of a case breaking out in their ranks, 250 of them who have not before enjoyed leave have been given 10 days. While some left for their homes today, the majority will leave on the New York boat tonght. In all, 210 boys are booked to take the steamer down the Sound. Upon their return it is hoped that the quarantine at the Station will have been lifted and they will be available for draft to ships.

NEW NAVAL DEFENSE MINE.

Charles R. Gabriel and Captain Karlo Leon of the Swedish navy are here, representing the Bliss-Leavitt Torpedo Company, and are today explaining to Commander J. K. Robison and officers of the Torpedo Station a naval defense mine of which Captain Leon is the inventor. There are four of the mines at the Station in boxes, awaiting breaking out for trial, but this morning the examination of blue prints were considered the first necessity.

Under the terms of the Peace Conference at the Hague the naval mine must have someotherrecommendation than that of ability to blow up ships if they are hit. The powers of the world are no longer permitted to plant these machines so that they may destroy non-combatant ships and lives, perhaps long after the war is over. The mine of today must show certain features for the safeguarding of humanity, and if this type is to be adopted by the United States navy it must be proved to be in accord with the demands at the Hague conference.

BOAT PLANS CHANGED.

The Providence Stays on Line Until the Commonwealth is Repaired.

There will be no change of boats at New York today and steamer Providence will continue on the line possibly another week, as it is now calculated that the Commonwealth will be ready to go on the line a week from tonight. The plans outlined Monday were all right, but in going through Hell Gate the Commonwealth did what so many other ships have done, touched the rocks. Now, in addition to having her underbody painted, she is having new plates put in to replace those damaged. This will change the plans for the Priscilla and she will probably not go down until after the Commonwealth comes off the dry dock.

FOR PREVENTION OF STRIKES.

Federal Industrial Relations Commission Suggests Mediation Board.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The federal industrial relations commission announced today that it has prepared a tentative draft of a bill for submission to Congress creating a national board of mediation and conciliation to prevent strikes and lockouts that may involve the federal government The measure is the result of extended investigation of the workings of similar boards in the various states and foreign countries The commission at its public hearings in New York city, beginning Monday will ask for criticisms and suggestions on the proposed bill

The bill provides strictly for voluntary conciliation and expressly denies to the board any compulsory powers of arbitration or prohibition of strikes or lockouts In this respect it avoids all conflict over any question of state or interstate jurisdiction The commission points out that within the past year Congress has investigated strikes in West Virginia Michigan and Colorado and that in the latter state federal troops were called in All those strikes involved interstate shipment of guns, men and strike breakers

A precedent for a national board is found in the anthracite coal strike commission of 1902 which settled the great strike in Pennsylvania

The bill is modelled somewhat after the act creating the present board of conciliation and mediation for dealing with disputes on railways

AMERICAN TROOPS IN DANGER.

Climatic Conditions at Vera Cruz Caus Anxiety Among Officials.

Sanitation Will be Difficult in Mexico When the Fighting Really Begins.

[Washington correspondence of the News]

WASHINGTON, May 11—Great anxiety is felt among officials on account of the climatic conditions at Vera Cruz and the probable effect upon the United States sailors and troops sent to that city A naval officer of long experience told me that Vera Cruz being wholly within the tropics and on account of the great growth of vegetation, was an unhealthy point He said there was less danger for the men on board ships because the malarial mosquitoes would not fly far out to sea This same officer commended the manner in which the naval surgeons had handled the wounded cases, as there had been no losses of wounded men at the time we were talking Since two deaths have resulted

Because the United States army cleaned up Santiago and Havana and under the same officers cleaned up Panama and made those places healthy enough for Americans the statement has been made that our sanitation experts in the army will be able to clean up that part of Mexico which will be occupied

That sounds well but it must be remembered that Mexico is a much larger proposition than Havana Santiago or Panama has been More than that the United States occupied those three points under peaceful conditions It was not such warfare as will continue in Mexico when the fighting really begins There might be sanitation if there were no battles to fight no wounded to care for and if there were not so many places to be occupied by the army

Secretary Garrison is frank is answering questions put to him during these war like times, and he is often the subject of searching inquiry by the newspaper men In one of the statements given out he quoted General Funston as saying that there were many rumors afloat in Vera Cruz

Did General Funston tell you what the rumors were? Garrison was asked

He did was the reply

Will you tell us what the rumors were was the next question

Not a word was the quick snappy reply by Secretary Garrison And the correspondents knew there was no use going further in that direction

Probably it does not do any good to tell the Senate what it is how negligent it is about its business how the Senators will not listen to long winded speeches and all that sort of thing At the same time it seems to give Senator McCumber a lot of satisfaction to lecture Senators up one side and down the other

For years Senator McCumber has been pushing a bill for a national grain grading law Many lengthy and elaborate speeches were made upon this subject both for and against and when the Senate came to vote the bill was defeated nearly two to one And the North Dakota Senator claimed that Senators had not listened to the debates and did not know what they were voting on

Whenever the attendance in the House dwindles down to a dozen members most everybody knows what has happened That condition occurred during the consideration of the naval bill and Congressman Conlden of New York explained to somebody who was making a protest

The gentleman realizes that there is a base ball game this afternoon

The same old crowd is here remarked Congressman Bartlett of Georgia About what we have had for 20 years

Several members protested against the use of the word old showing that they were somewhat sensitive on the subject of age

Many members of the House of Representatives were complaining because they did not have clerical hire enough and this was combated by Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee I undertake to say that a large portion of the strenuous labor indulged in by members of this House and I speak from an experience of [illegible] years is not because of any compelling public interest Rather it is because of the efforts to continue themselves in their present office We do work long and excessive hours but it is because we do [illegible] things to commend ourselves personally and politically to our constituents in the belief that it will strengthen us for renomination There is no necessity for much of such labor from the standpoint of efficient transaction of public business

TESTING THE PROPELLERS.

The McDougal Begins First of Series of Acceptance Trials.

ROCKLAND, Maine, May 12—Scheduled for 26 runs over the measured mile course, torpedo boat destroyer McDougal today began the first of the series of builders' acceptance trials Today's work was for the purpose of standardizing the propellers which is necessary before the endurance trials can be held The craft exceeded contract speed requirements during the run from Bath to this port Monday, making over 31 knots in several stretches The contract for her construction called for 30 1-2 knots an hour

The McDougal went on the course at 7 a m gradually increasing her speed from eight knots to maximum, which on the four-hour run must exceed 30½ knots As the destroyer already has excelled the latter speed on her unofficial trials the builders had no concern as to this week's results

The McDougal was built at Bath has a displacement of 1 020 tons and belongs to the oil burning type

Steering and turning tests were in order after today's standardization and the destroyer was not expected to dock before night

The board of inspection and survey for ships, which has charge of these trials is composed almost wholly of new members Captain H B Wilson formerly commander of battleship North Dakota, is president and Commander George E Gelm is recorder

FOR PREVENTION OF STRIKES.

Federal Industrial Relations Commission Suggests Mediation Board.

WASHINGTON, May 12—The federal industrial relations commission announced today that it has prepared a tentative draft of a bill for submission to Congress, creating a national board of mediation and conciliation to prevent strikes and lockouts that may involve the federal government. The measure is the result of extended investigation of the workings of similar boards in the various states and foreign countries. The commission at its public hearings in New York city, begining Monday, will ask for criticisms and suggestions on the proposed bill.

The bill provides strictly for voluntary conciliation and expressly denies to the board any compulsory powers of arbitration or prohibition of strikes or lockouts. In this respect it avoids all conflict over any question of state or interstate jurisdiction. The commission points out that within the past year Congress has investigated strikes in West Virginia, Michigan and Colorado and that in the latter state federal troops were called in. All those strikes involved interstate shipment of guns, men and strike breakers.

The bill is modelled somewhat after the act creating the present board of conciliation and mediation for dealing with disputes on railways.

Ryan, the American Red Cross official recently arrested by Federals at Zacatecas, Mexico, was not among the passengers. Dr. Ryan had boarded the steamer at Puerto Mexico, but had slipped off quietly at Vera Cruz and probably will sail by a later vessel.

POLICE NOTES.

The police this morning had two men for drunkenness. Each pleaded guilty and furnishing the required $4.60 made a quick departure from the station. A man charged with nonsupport, who had been on probation, was surrendered and sent to the workhouse for six months. Two boys charged with revelling were notified to report Sunday morning for a hearing.

There was a report Monday of a lost child on upper Thames street and it was supposed of course that Officer Coggeshall would have the case. However some women, probably mothers, came along and saw that the little one reached home without bothering the police.

AMERICAN TROOPS IN DANGER.

Climatic Conditions at Vera Cruz Caus Anxiety Among Officials.

Sanitation Will be Difficult in Mexico When the Fighting Really Begins.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, May 11.—Great anxiety is felt among officials on account of the climatic conditions at Vera Cruz and the probable effect upon the United States sailors and troops sent to that city. A naval officer of long experience told me that Vera Cruz, being wholly within the tropics, and on account of the great growth of vegetation, was an unhealthy point. He said there was less danger for the men on board ships because the malarial mosquitoes would not fly far out to sea. This same officer commended the manner in which the naval surgeons had handled the wounded cases, as there had been no losses of wounded men at the time we were talking. Since two deaths have resulted.

Because the United States army cleaned up Santiago and Havana and under the same officers cleaned up Panama and made those places healthy enough for Americans, the statement has been made that our sanitation experts in the army will be able to clean up that part of Mexico which will be occupied.

That sounds well, but it must be remembered that Mexico is a much larger proposition than Havana, Santiago or Panama has been. More than that, the United States occupied those three points under peaceful conditions. It was not such warfare as will continue in Mexico when the fighting really begins. There might be sanitation if there were no battles to fight, no wounded to care for and if there were not so many places to be occupied by the army.

Secretary Garrison is frank is answering questions put to him during these war-like times, and he is often the subject of searching inquiry by the newspaper men. In one of the statements given out he quoted General Funston as saying that there "were many rumors afloat in Vera Cruz."

"Did General Funston tell you what the rumors were?" Garrison was asked.

"He did," was the reply.

"Will you tell us what the rumors were?" was the next question.

"Not a word," was the quick, snappy reply by Secretary Garrison. And the correspondents knew there was no use going further in that direction.

Probably it does not do any good to tell the Senate what it is, how negligent it is about its business, how the Senators will not listen to long winded speeches and all that sort of thing. At the same time it seems to give Senator McCumber a lot of satisfaction to lecture Senators up one side and down the other.

For years Senator McCumber has been pushing a bill for a national grain grading law. Many lengthy and elaborate speeches were made upon this subject, both for and against, and when the Senate came to vote the bill was defeated nearly two to one. And the North Dakota Senator claimed that Senators had not listened to the debates and did not know what they were voting on.

Whenever the attendance in the House dwindles down to a dozen members most everybody knows what has happened. That condition occurred during the consideration of the naval bill and Congressman Goulden of New York explained to somebody who was making a protest:

"The gentleman realizes that there is a base ball game this afternoon."

"The same old crowd is here," remarked Congressman Bartlett of Georgia. "About what we have had for 20 years."

Several members protested against the use of the word "old," showing that they were somewhat sensitive on the subject of age.

Many members of the House of Representatives were complaining because they did not have clerical hire enough, and this was combated by Chairman Fitzgerald of the appropriations committee "I undertake to say that a large portion of the strenuous labor indulged in by members of this House, and I speak from an experience of 15 years, is not because of any compelling public interest. Rather, it is because of the efforts to continue themselves in their present office. We do work long and excessive hours, but it is because we desire to do things to commend ourselves personally, and particularly to our constituents, in the belief that it will strengthen us for re-nomination. There is no necessity for much of such labor from the standpoint of efficient transaction of public business."

Arthur W. Dunn.

TESTING THE PROPELLERS.

The McDougal Begins First of Series of Acceptance Trials.

ROCKLAND, Maine, May 12.—Scheduled for 26 runs over the measured mile course, torpedo boat destroyer McDougal today began the first of the series of builders' acceptance trials. Today's work was for the purpose of standardizing the propellers, which is necessary before the endurance trials can be held. The craft exceeded contract speed requirements during the run from Bath to this port Monday, making over 31 knots in several stretches. The contract for her construction called for 30 1-3 knots an hour.

The McDougal went on the course at 7 a. m., gradually increasing her speed from eight knots to maximum, which on the four-hour run must exceed 30½ knots. As the destroyer already has excelled the latter speed on her unofficial trials, the builders had no concern as to this week's results.

The McDougal was built at Bath, has a displacement of 1,020 tons and belongs to the oil-burning type.

Steering and turning tests were in order after today's standardization and the destroyer was not expected to dock before night.

The board of inspection and survey for ships, which has charge of these trials, is composed almost wholly of new members. Captain H. B. Wilson, formerly commander of battleship North Dakota, is president, and Commander George E. Gehn is recorder

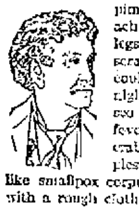
IN TORTURE WITH TERRIBLE ERUPTION

Horribly Itching Pimples, Scratched Till Bled, Thoroughly Miserable. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Trouble Disappeared.

Watkins Park, Edgewater-on-the-Hudson, N. J. — "About two years ago I had a terrible breaking out of horribly itching pimples all over the stomach and upper part of my legs. The reddish pimples had got a head on them like smallpox corpuscles. I rubbed them with a rough cloth, they itched so. Some said it was the itch and others the hives.



"I took several treatments but got no relief. I was suffering for over six weeks when I began with the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. ATTACK ON THE WATER WORKS NOT THREATENED.

the snipers, under arrest in Vera Cruz, were made at the request of the Huerta government. He understood, he said, that this had been done on the ground that the sniping had occurred in Mexican territory. He added that there is a question as to whether one of the South Americans accused was a Brazilian or a Venezuelan.

Justice Lamar and Frederick W. Lehmann, chosen to represent the United States at the mediation conference, awaited word early today from Secretary Bryan before completing arrangements for their mission.

Consul W. E. Alger from Mazatlan, which is besieged by between 14 000 and 16,000 Constitutionalists, reported today at the State Department for instructions.

Thirty Americans, most of them women and children, were left at Mazatlan at their own wish. Several hundred foreigners of other nationalities also refused to leave. Consul Alger said the country was in a pitiful condition as the result of the internal warfare.

Associate Justice Lamar of the Supreme Court and former Solicitor General Lehmann, named as the American mission to the Niagara Falls Conference, hope to take up immediately with the President and Secretary Bryan the appointment of their assistants.

Steamer Kronprinzessin Cecilie, with the Mexican delegates on board, will reach Key West during the week. When she sailed from Vera Cruz late yesterday she had on board arms and ammunition consigned to President Huerta which she was not permitted to land at Mexican ports.

The envoys of Argentina, Brazil and Chili expected to leave Washington later in the week to complete the final program for the meeting at Niagara Falls.

The manning by American forces of the lighthouse on Lobos island, off Tampico, which Huetra's foreign minister has protested is a violation of the armistice, also was taken up in the cabinet meeting.

While Huerta's mediators steamed north from Vera Cruz today and the American delegates began plans of organization for the Niagara Falls conference, these three important phases in the Mexican situation stood out, demanding urgent attention:

The fate of John R. Silliman, United States vice consul at Saltillo, reported held by Huerta's soldiers.

Settlement of the "occupation" of Lobos island, which drew a protest from Huerta's foreign minister.

Disposition of five South Americans arrested for sniping operations at Vera Cruz.

Silliman's case was among the first of the developments that were submitted to President Wilson when he returned today from New York, where he paid tribute for the nation to the Americans who fell at Vera Cruz.

Secretary Bryan was emphatic in announcing, after a conference with the South American envoys, the government's determination to have Silliman released.

The Lobos island incident was taken up by Secretary Daniels. He had before him this report from Rear Admiral Mayo at Tampico: "Lobos island has not been occupied. The Dixie and some destroyers anchored there and others vessels have coaled there from a collier. The keepers of Lobos Island light deserted it and the Dixie is now maintaining it for the benefit of navigation. I undersaand that the destroyers have had occasional swimming parties ashore."

General belief was expressed that this explanation would amply answer Huerta's protest that the United States, by seizing the island, had violated the armistice, and would make it plain that the Dixie's commander acted only to insure protection to shipping by maintaining the Lobos light.

Disposition of the cases of the South Americans arrested at Vera Cruz had been halted pending word from the ministers of their respective countries. When it became known that General Funston proposed to try the men before a military court-martial, the Brazilian minister in Mexico City appealed for them. Secretary Garrison decided to postpone action on that, pointing out that properly it should have been made by states of which the prisoners are citizens.

Word anxiously was awaited today of the result of fighting at Tampico, where rebels and Federals were in a death grapple for territory in which millions of American and British dollars are invested. General Zaragoza, commanding at Tampico, reported to Huerta early today that the Constitutionalists had been defeated, with heavy losses. It was believed that there had been heavy fighting since then and the Federal reports were not necessarily conclusive.

The rebels were planning to renew their campaign in the north and Carranza's agents asserted that the Constitutionalist chief expected to conquer the Federal garrison at Saltillo and establish his capital there pending the final campaign against Mexico City.

Holland offered the government a war vessel now at Tampico to transport the Mexican delegates to the Niagara Falls Peace Conference. The government replied that the delegates are now on board a German liner in Vera Cruz and thanked Holland for the courtesy.

According to international rules Americans leaving Mexico offered the Brazilian minister payment for their passports. The minister refused to accept it and asked the Americans to give the money to the Red Cross.

The Mexican diplomatic corps has been militarized, all the ministers will be generals; first secretaries, colonels; second secretaries, lieutenant coloners, and third secretaries, majors.

STILL FIGHTING AT MAZATLAN.

Sixteen Zapataistas Killed in Battle With Federals Near Acapulco.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Admiral Howard, commanding the American fleet off the west coast of Mexico, today reported a battle between Mexican Federals and Zapata revolutionists 20 miles from Acapulco, in which 16 Zapataistas were killed. The fighting at Mazatlan continued, the report said.

SILLIMAN'S RELEASE ORDERED.

Brazilian Minister to Obtain Safe Conduct for Him to Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Senor Oliveira, the Brazilian minister in Mexico City, informed the State Department today that the Mexican government has ordered the immediate release of Vice Consul John R. Silliman, held a prisoner at Saltillo. The minister added that as soon as Mr. Silliman reached Mexico City he would obtain for him safe conduct to Vera Cruz.

LINE WAS TORN UP.

Tehuantepec Road Never Closed to International Traffic.

MEXICO CITY, May 12.—Jose Maria Lozano, in a statement issued yesterday, declared that the Mexican government had never closed the Tehuantepec railway to international traffic. The line was torn up for a few days near Salina Cruz, the minister explained, but today traffic was re-established.

BYRNES APPROVED VOUCHER.

New Haven Connected With Lobbying Against Provision of Panama Act.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was connected with lobbying against the provision of the Panama canal act prohibiting railroad-owned ships from passing through the canal, according to testimony at the hearing today into the New Haven's affairs by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Timothy E. Byrnes, former vice president of the New Haven, testified that $1,000 paid to Clarence W. DeKnight, a Washington lawyer, by former Rear Admiral F. T. B. Bowles, then president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, for services in connection with the Panama legislation, in reality came from the New Haven treasury. The Senate lobby investigation committee had DeKnight and Bowles before it with relation to the transaction, but the New Haven's connection was then brought out.

Mr. Byrnes, who resumed the stand today, was shown a voucher for the transaction and was questioned by Chief Councel Folk in regard to it. He said he approved the voucher at the personal direction of Mr. Mellen, and that he learned later that Mr. Bowles had asked Mr. Mellen for the money to retain counsel in the Panama canal legislation, the New Haven being interested in account of its Long Island Sound lines.

Mr. Byrnes was on the stand two hours and again was questioned as to payments made to various persons for services to the New Haven, and particularly as to the work of Arthur P. Russell, an assistant attorney in the Boston office. Byrnes resented what he called "insinuations" in the queries as to legislative work. He also said many slurs had been cast in other quarters, and before being excused made a statement in which he said that when he took up the New Haven's work in Boston he adopted a positive rule to "cut out" anything in the way of illegal expenditures in legislative matters. This rule, he said, he had strictly adherred to.

DR. PLOTZ TO READ PAPER.

Will Tell Association of Physicians of Isolation of Typhus Fever Germ.

NEW YORK, May 12.—In a paper which he will read tomorrow before the American Association of Physicians in convention at Atlantic City, Dr. Harry Plotz of the pathological department of Mount Sinai Hospital of this city will tell of his discovery and isolation of the germ which causes typhus fever. Dr. Plotz, who is 24 years old, graduated from the College of Physicians annd Surgeons a year ago.

The isolation of the typhus bacillus, it is asserted, has demonstrated that Brill's disease, which it was thought was a separate ailment, is really another form of typhus fever. Dr. Plotz is now attempting to find an antitoxin for typhus.

MRS. LORILLARD SPENCER AT JOLO.

Last Part of the Voyage Made in Company of Mohammedan Envoy.

[New York Herald]

Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, who left New York December 6 last for the purpose of taking an active part in the work of founding a mission at Jolo, made the last portion of her voyage under remarkable circumstances. From Zamboanga to Jolo she was accompanied by one of the highest and holiest personalities of Mohammedanism, Sayid Mohammed Wajih Gilani, the special envoy from Constantinople. Mrs. Spencer and the envoy became great friends and discussed at length the welfare of the Moros, to help whom each had made a long journey and many sacrifices.

The great deputation of dattos and other Moros chiefs who came out to the vessel to greet the Mohammedan envoy at Jolo found him dining with the American woman and were greatly surprised. These fierce fanatics could not understand how a member of the hierarchy of their faith could condescend to eat with a Christian Their conception of their religious duty included quite a different treatment of Christians.

One of the dattos asked the distinguished envoy, "How is it that you, a Mohammedan prince and a descendant of the Prophet, deign to eat with Christians?" To which Sayid Mohammed replied: "Have you read your Koran?" He then pointed out that the book taught toleration, which was a new idea for the semi-savage mind, whose highest conception of his religion was that it enjoined on him the execration of all Christians.

Mrs. Spencer was given a foretaste of the fanaticism of the people among whom she had come to labor before leaving Zamboanga. The arrival of the Mohammedan envoy was the occasion of the most notable exhibition of the Moro faith witnessed since the beginning of American occupation. A throng of 5,000 Moros greeted the envoy with transports of fanatical fervor and religious devotion.

Prostrating themselves in the dust, they implored an opportunity to kiss his feet and his clothing, begged him for a blessing and entreated him to remain with them always. This revelation of the magnitude of the task before her did not dishearten the plucky American woman nor shake her faith in the saving principles of the faith which it was her mission to carry to that paynim horde. She was impressed by the character and sincerity of the Mohammedan envoy and his sincere desire to aid the people among whom she herself had come to labor.

Sayid Mohammed hah since left Moroland for Constantinople after a stay of two and a half months. It is chiefly because of failing health that he is returning to Constantinople. He has been attacked with a serious illness while here and grave fears are held out of his not recovering. He goes, however, with one determination, to help his fellow Mohammedans in Mindanao.

Students of the Moro situation believe that the visit of this Mohammedan prince means the beginning of the end of the Moro problem. With competent teachers, who will appeal to them through their own faith and thus have a great hold over them, the half savage Moros will be made into peaceful, constructive citizens, they believe.

Sayid Effendi as he is referred to by his friends is the holiest man of Mohammedanism ever to visit Malaysia, and is one of the few men of his high rank in the Mohammedan church to pay a visit to the Far East. He was named at the instance of Colonel P. Finley, who bore a petition from the Moro chiefs, by the Sultan, to visit Mindanao and then report on the status of Mohammedanism there.

Asker for his views on the political future of the Moros, he said he preferred not to mix in politics, though he admitted that Moro leaders had told him that they wished a continuance of American occupation and regretted the withdrawal of American troops. He said:

"When I saw the condition of the Moros it broke my heart They are sadly in need of help. They must be taught the arts of peace, the advantages of tranquility, and there is no nobler work in the Mohammedan world than a movement to uplift these people."

It is the intention of Mrs Spencer to remain a year in Jolo to firmly establish a Christian mission there. For many years she had contributed to the missionary work conducted there under the direction of Bishop Brent, and finally determined to take an active part in the campaign. Desp to the pleading of her relatives and friends who were impressed by the dangers she would encounter among the tribes of Jolo, Mrs. Spencer started from New York last December. She was accompanied by Miss Virginia C. Young, a deaconess of St. George's Church.

Ex-Mayor Hezekiah Stone Russell of Pittsfield Dead.

In 1857 he went to Australia as foreman with a telegraph company. He returned to Pittsfield in 1862 and from 1865 to 1902 operated a boiler-making plant. He was a Republican in politics and in 1887 and 1888 was selectman. He was councilman in 1897 and 1898 and in 1900 and 1901 he served as mayor.

Holland offered the government a war vessel now at Tampico to transport the Mexican delegates to the Niagara Falls Peace Conference. The government replied that the delegates are now on board a German liner in Vera Cruz and thanked Holland for the courtesy.

According to international rules Americans leaving Mexico offered the Brazilian minister payment for their passports. The minister refused to accept it and asked the Americans to give the money to the Red Cross.

The Mexican diplomatic corps has been militarized, all the ministers will be generals; first secretaries, colonels; second secretaries, lieutenant coloners, and third secretaries, majors.

BYRNES APPROVED VOUCHER.

New Haven Connected With Lobbying Against Provision of Panama Act.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was connected with lobbying against the provision of the Panama canal act prohibiting railroad-owned ships from passing through the canal, according to testimony at the hearing today into the New Haven's affairs by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Timothy E. Byrnes, former vice president of the New Haven, testified that $1,000 paid to Clarence W. DeKnight, a Washington lawyer, by former Rear Admiral F. T. B. Bowles, then president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, for services in connection with the Panama legislation, in reality came from the New Haven treasury. The Senate lobby investigation committee had DeKnight and Bowles before it with relation to the transaction, but the New Haven's connection was then brought out.

Mr. Byrnes, who resumed the stand today, was shown a voucher for the transaction and was questioned by Chief Councel Folk in regard to it. He said he approved the voucher at the personal direction of Mr. Mellen, and that he learned later that Mr. Bowles had asked Mr. Mellen for the money to retain counsel in the Panama canal legislation, the New Haven being interested in account of its Long Island Sound lines.

Mr. Byrnes was on the stand two hours and again was questioned as to payments made to various persons for services to the New Haven, and particularly as to the work of Arthur P. Russell, an assistant attorney in the Boston office. Byrnes resented what he called "insinuations" in the queries as to legislative work. He also said many slurs had been cast in other quarters, and before being excused made a statement in which he said that when he took up the New Haven's work in Boston he adopted a positive rule to "cut out" anything in the way of illegal expenditures in legislative matters. This rule, he said, he had strictly adherred to.

NEW YORK, May 12.—In a paper which he will read tomorrow before the American Association of Physicians in convention at Atlantic City, Dr. Harry Plotz of the pathological department of Mount Sinai Hospital of this city will tell of his discovery and isolation of the germ which causes typhus fever. Dr. Plotz, who is 24 years old, graduated from the College of Physicians annd Surgeons a year ago.

The isolation of the typhus bacillus, it is asserted, has demonstrated that Brill's disease, which it was thought was a separate ailment, is really another form of typhus fever. Dr. Plotz is now attempting to find an antitoxin for typhus.

MRS. LORILLARD SPENCER AT JOLO.

Last Part of the Voyage Made in Company of Mohammedan Envoy.

[New York Herald.]

Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, who left New York December 6 last for the purpose of taking an active part in the work of founding a mission at Jolo, made the last portion of her voyage under remarkable circumstances. From Zamboanga to Jolo she was accompanied by one of the highest and holiest personalities of Mohammedanism, Sayid Mohammed Wajih Gilani, the special envoy from Constantinople. Mrs. Spencer and the envoy became great friends and discussed at length the welfare of the Moros, to help whom each had made a long journey and many sacrifices.

The great deputation of dattos and other Moros chiefs who came out to the vessel to greet the Mohammedan envoy at Jolo found him dining with the American woman and were greatly surprised. These fierce fanatics could not understand how a member of the hierarchy of their faith could condescend to eat with a Christian. Their conception of their religious duty included quite a different treatment of Christians.

One of the dattos asked the distinguished envoy, "How is it that you, a Mohammedan prince and a descendant of the Prophet, deign to eat with Christians?" To which Sayid Mohammed replied: "Have you read your Koran?" He then pointed out that the book taught toleration, which was a new idea for the semi-savage mind, whose highest conception of his religion was that it enjoined on him the execration of all Christians.

Mrs. Spencer was given a foretaste of the fanaticism of the people among whom she had come to labor before leaving Zamboanga. The arrival of the Mohammedan envoy was the occasion of the most notable exhibition of the Moro faith witnessed since the beginning of American occupation. A throng of 5,000 Moros greeted the envoy with transports of fanatical fervor and religious devotion.

Prostrating themselves in the dust, they implored an opportunity to kiss his feet and his clothing, begged him for a blessing and entreated him to remain with them always. This revelation of the magnitude of the task before her did not dishearten the plucky American woman nor shake her faith in the saving principles of the faith which it was her mission to carry to that paynim horde. She was impressed by the character and sincerity of the Mohammedan envoy and his sincere desire to aid the people among whom she herself had come to labor.

Sayid Mohammed has since left Moroland for Constantinople after a stay of two and a half months. It is chiefly because of failing health that he is returning to Constantinople. He has been attacked with a serious illness while here and grave fears are held out of his not recovering. He goes, however, with one determination, to help his fellow Mohammedans in Mindanao.

Students of the Moro situation believe that the visit of this Mohammedan prince means the beginning of the end of the Moro problem. With competent teachers, who will appeal to them through their own faith and thus have a great hold over them, the half savage Moros will be made into peaceful, constructive citizens, they believe.

Sayid Effendi as he is referred to by his friends is the holiest man of Mohammedanism ever to visit Malaysia, and is one of the few men of his high rank in the Mohammedan church to pay a visit to the Far East. He was named at the instance of Colonel P. Finley, who bore a petition from the Moro chiefs, by the Sultan, to visit Mindanao and then report on the status of Mohammedanism there.

Asker for his views on the political future of the Moros, he said he preferred not to mix in politics, though he admitted that Moro leaders had told him that they wished a continuance of American occupation and regretted the withdrawal of American troops. He said:

"When I saw the condition of the Moros it broke my heart. They are sadly in need of help. They must be taught the arts of peace, the advantages of tranquility, and there is no nobler work in the Mohammedan world than a movement to uplift these people."

It is the intention of Mrs. Spencer to remain a year in Jolo to firmly establish a Christian mission there. For many years she had contributed to the missionary work conducted there under the direction of Bishop Brent, and finally determined to take an active part in the campaign. Despite the pleading of her relatives and friends who were impressed by the dangers she would encounter among the tribes of Jolo, Mrs. Spencer started from New York last December. She was accompanied by Miss Virginia C. Young, a deaconess of St. George's Church.

State Appropriations

Newport receives each year $1,000 based on its school houses ($100 each to a limit of 10) It also receives a certain amount per pupil of the census of the preceding January for those 5 to 15 years of age (both included) This rate varies from year to year according to the state and city [illegible] This year a total of [illegible] ($1700 less than last) is distributed among 10711 children ([illegible] than last year) Furthermore though the Newport total census shows an increase the census for children 5 to 15 years was less than [illegible] The result is that the rate per child is reduced about two and one fifth cents and with a smaller census the appropriation for this city is $14,975 This means a loss of $1,832 This result was anticipated to some extent in the estimated receipts in January for 1914 when [illegible] was placed in the budget Even then there is a loss of [illegible]

For the graduation exercises of grade IX on Thursday June 18 [illegible] er F Ranger LL D commissioner of education has been secured and for the Rogers [illegible] June 19 Rev Edward Cummings former assistant professor of sociology at Harvard and now successor to Edward Everett Hale Because of the great demand for speakers for such occasions and also because of the college functions during the third week of June your superintendent deems the pupils very fortunate

The New Curriculum

Thursday April 21 Dr Snedden commissioner of education in Massachusetts kindly gave an evening lecture on the probable advance in elementary school work This advance is already in operation in part in several places and in a considerable state of completion in two cities The lecture ought to be of great interest and significance at this particular time when the elimination of grade IX is under consideration and also when a new central building is about to be planned The changes described by Dr Snedden necessitate because of expense of equipment and of instruction a centering of the two higher grammar grades in one or two buildings Luckily, the Mary Street site is well adapted for segregating the 250 pupils south of Marlborough and Pell streets and the Mumford (at first in connection with the Townsend Industrial) for the 250 north of the same streets The restriction of at first is made, because the whole of the Townsend Industrial will be needed for the Rogers High [illegible] rooms of the Mumford [illegible] well lighted [illegible] and also two rooms for cooking and sewing

Furthermore such centralizing would give an excellent opportunity for opening an ungraded room for pupils from two to [illegible] years above the normal age for the grades in which they are enrolled because they have fallen behind their grades for several possible reasons The time seems opportune for action along the lines vigorously advocated by Dr Snedden that is for a differentiated curriculum for grades VII and VIII with more [illegible] and commercial work [illegible] the usual preparation for entrance to the Rogers

For the committee on teachers Rev Dr Porter made the following recommendation which was approved by the full committee

Your committee on teachers respectfully recommend that Miss Elizabeth B. Peckham, who is absent on account of illness, be paid one third of her salary from April 29 to June 19 1914.

For the committee on text-books and curriculum Miss Hunter presented the following suggestions as to changes in text books, etc which were received and under the rules go over to the next meeting

To the Honorable Public School Committee

In accordance with the rules and regulations your committee on text-books and curriculum hereby give notice and at the next regular meeting they will recommend the following additions and exchanges

Additions—The Congdon Music Reader No 4 for grade III Commercial Correspondence Alamaler, Macmillan Company for the Rogers, "Practical Physics" Black and Davis Macmillan Company for advanced Physics in Rogers The extension of the use of the First Book in German Bagster-Collins, adopted June 1912 for grade XI to grade XII

Exchanges for the Rogers—Cicero's Orations Tunstall D C Heath & Co in place of a similar book published by Ginn & Co Shorter French Course Fraser and Squair D C Heath & Co in place of a similar book published by the American Book Company Elementary Chemistry Alexander Smith the Century Company in place of a similar book published by Allyn & Bacon German Composition Bacon Allyn & Bacon in place of a similar book published by D C Heath & Co

For the same committee Miss Hunter presented the following report on the proposed change in curriculum

To the Honorable Public School Committee

The following recommendations are respectfully submitted by your committee on text books and curriculum

First—That in accordance with the custom of practically the whole country an eight grade system for the elementary schools shall be established by eliminating the ninth grade

Second—That for the school year 1914 1915 the children now in the kindergarten who have attended at least two thirds of the session be promoted to grade I but no other children shall enter grade I until they are six years old This age is the standard for eight grade systems

Third That after the opening of schools next September the pupils of the elementary schools shall be divided in each room into at least two divisions so that semi annual promotions may be made as soon as the school accommodations permit

Fourth That the superintendent shall be authorized to arrange for a gradual change in the curriculum and in the grades so that a beginning may be made next September—with the understanding however that the reorganization will probably require two years

Fifth—That next September the entering class of the Rogers be offered a course of six periods (with a diploma value of three points) in household arts The intent is that in September 1915 this course shall be extended to the next higher grade

Sixth—That the new building to replace the Clarke school shall be planned for manual work and household arts for the higher grammar grades The accommodations in the Townsend Industrial are insufficient to meet the present demands and when the same opportunities are offered the girls in the Rogers that are now given the boys the accommodations will be even more limited

Mr Sullivan thought the report should go over a month to give opportunity to digest it Mr Cozzens thought the regular course would be first to receive the report This of course appealed to all as being right

Miss Hunter said that there was nothing hurried about the report It had been under consideration about two years and would have been in either this year but for some changes in the committee which delayed matter

Superintendent Lull also said there was nothing new in the case It had been before the committee for a long time As Miss Hunter had said there is no need of rush except in regard to the high school course The copy for this course is now in the hands of the printer and is held until action is taken on this report This is given to each pupil about to graduate from the grammar schools to select the studies decided upon by pupils and parents and to have this new schedule [illegible] it would be necessary to take action on the fifth section relating to the high school course

Mr Sullivan thought provision should be made to give the pupils who [illegible] to New York and [illegible] not to go to [illegible] in mind he is given an opportunity [illegible] the studies which will be [illegible] Mr [illegible] said that was just the idea which the speaker at the recent meeting [illegible] Mr Sullivan had not heard the lecture

Mr Sullivan called attention to the rule that a grammar school education is necessary for taking a shorthand course He believed those who had not this could learn it with the shorthand He cited the fact that there are a number of the schools doing what he believed the city should do [illegible] has [illegible] pupils

Mr [illegible] spoke of the need of [illegible] transition from the grammar to the high school so that it would not discourage pupils from attaining owing to the radical change in the work He believed the new system would work well in this line

Mr Lull again explained what [illegible] proposed [illegible] in the [illegible] studies for grades VII and VIII

Finally the board voted to adopt section five and to lay over the rest of the report till the next meeting and have copies of it sent to each member

Mr Stevens reported on the matter of a married woman playing for the exercises in the high school that the committee had not deemed action at the present time necessary

Mr Sullivan asked what is being done in regard to the new school building [illegible] the committee should know something about this Mr Batchelder was called upon but had nothing to report However Mr Cozzens [illegible] information

Then Mr [illegible] what had [illegible] It is planned to [illegible] full rooms equipped and finished the same as the present rooms and in two cells It was proposed [illegible] the heating system by [illegible] the boilers close to the north wall and building a new chimney The present system calls for a long pipe from the boilers to the chimney and it is desired to obviate this It was found however that it would be impracticable to build a chimney on the north side as planned [illegible] It was then decided to place the boilers in the west end and use the old chimney The addition calls for additional heating and a second boiler is to be put in The contracts for the work have been given out and are well within the amount available The committee had asked him for a list of furnishings and this is yet to be prepared

Mr Batchelder added a few words saying the School Committee is to supply one of the boilers as the old one is worn out

Mr Cozzens spoke of the uniform courtesy shown the School Committee members by the aldermen and the desire in the part of the latter board to have everything done just as the School Committee desires it done In regard to the Clarke school he informed the committee that the prices for the land are too high One owner had reduced one had partly done so and one had done nothing The aldermen had given the owners two weeks in which to think of a reduction and if there is no action the School Committee might be called upon at its next meeting to do something

Mr Covell regarding the proposed improvement of the library conditions at the Rogers High School said one room was found in which it was thought shelves could be arranged across doors which are not used Additional shelf room can thus be provided without interfering with the work and at the same time relieving the strain on the library The report was received and the committee authorized to have the changes made

Superintendent Lull had prepared a plan for the new school year It does not come up for consideration before the June meeting but to prepare for it he had two schemes outlined on the wall The fact that Labor day comes on September 7 the month coming in on Tuesday and that the usual plan is to begin school the Monday after Labor day complicates matters One plan showed school beginning the day after Labor day September 8 the other the Monday after Labor day The two plans are as follows

A	B
Sept 14 Nov 20	Sept 8 Nov 13
Nov 2? Feb 5	Nov 16 Jan 29
Feb 8 April 2?	Feb 1 April 16
April [illegible] June 2?	April 19 June 8

The time to come out are of course standard in either case—October 12 Columbus day the days for the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction Thanksgiving November 26 27 Christmas December 24 (noon) January 4 Easter April 2 1? and Decoration day May 31

No action was taken and the committee adjourned

regulations passed by the state board. Twenty diseases have been declared so dangerous to the public health that they must be reported to the local board. Changes have been made in the time of exclusion and the conditions. More attention is given to cases of measles than in the past, in the hope that the spreading of the disease may be prevented.

Parents.

During the month Carey has held its open evenings under the direction of the Civic League, and Cranston and Coggeshall their public reception for display of work and for meeting the fathers and mothers. The attendance at all these was unusually large and satisfactory. The pupils have this year taken a more prominent part, either by singing or by illustrating some phase of the work.

Visiting.

The following teachers have, in accordance with the rules of the Public School Committee, visited beyond the limits of the city since April 13, and have returned their visiting record to this office: Mrs. Gale, the Misses I. Currin, S. Currin, A. Driscoll K. Driscoll Kiernan, Leddy and Saunders, and Mr. May.

State Appropriations.

Newport receives each year $1,500, based on its schoolrooms, at $100 each to a limit of 15. It also receives a certain amount per pupil of the census of the preceding January for those 5 to 15 years of age (both included). This rate varies from year to year, according to the state and city increase or loss. This year a total of $63,600 ($1,769 less than last) is divided among 107,615 children (1,022 more than last year). Furthermore, although Newport's total census showed an increase, the census for those 5 to 15 years was 56 less than 1912. The result is that the rate per child is reduced about two and one-fifth cents, and with a smaller census the appropriation for this city is only $1,429.75. This means a loss of $135.32. This result was anticipated to some extent in the estimated receipts in January for 1914, when only $1,450 was placed in the budget. Even then there is a loss of $20.25.

Graduations.

For the graduation exercises of grade IX on Thursday June 18, Walter E. Ranger, LL. D. commissioner of education has been secured and for the Rogers Friday, June 19, Rev. Edward Cummings formerly assistant professor of sociology at Harvard and now successor to Edward Everett Hale. Because of the great demand for speakers for such occasions, and also because of the college functions during the third week of June, your superintendent deems the pupils very fortunate.

The New Curriculum.

Tuesday, April 21, Dr. Snedden, commissioner of education in Massachusetts, kindly gave an evening lecture on the probable advance in elementary school work. This advance is already in operation in part in several places, and in a considerable state of completion in two cities. The lecture ought to be of great interest and significance at this particular time, when the elimination of grade IX is under consideration, and also when a new central building is about to be planned. The changes described by Dr. Snedden necessitate, because of expense of equipment and of instruction, a centering of the two higher grammar grades in one or two buildings. Luckily, the Mary Street site is well adapted for segregating the 250 pupils south of Marlborough and Bull streets, and the Mumford (at first in connection with the Townsend Industrial) for the 250 north of the same streets. The restriction of "at first" is made, because the whole of the Townsend Industrial will be needed for the Rogers High School when such a plan as outlined above has been in operation for one or two years. Then the excellent basements of the Mumford may easily furnish well lighted quarters for manual work and also two rooms for cooking and sewing.

Furthermore, such a centralizing would give an excellent opportunity for opening an ungraded room for pupils from two to three years above the normal age of the grades in which they are enrolled, because they have fallen behind their grades for several possible reasons. The time seems opportune for action along the lines vigorously advocated by Dr. Snedden—that is, for a differentiated curriculum for grades VII and VIII, with more manual, domestic and commercial work in addition to the usual preparatory work for entrance to the Rogers.

As Superintendent Lull finished the reading of his report he was called on the telephone by Dr. Darrah, who asked him to report the offer of the dental clinic. The superintendent told the board he was about to make a verbal addition to his report on this matter. He had been informed by Dr. W. S. Sherman who was in charge of this work for the Board of Health that an offer had been made by a citizen to furnish for the use of this dental clinic a complete and up-to-date outfit which would enable the dentists to do much better work. He did not know who had made the offer, but he surmised that it came from a summer resident. This would be of material advantage.

He called attention to the program of the coming eighty-third annual meeting of the New England school superintendents in Boston Friday, which gives the entire period to the discussion, led by Mr. J. H. Van Sickle, on the relation of the upper grade work to that of the high school. The subject is divided into six topics. It is the most important matter now before the schools and is being considered everywhere.

He also called attention to the fact that there is no report from the truant officer. He was in his usual apparent good health Friday noon, but the doctors decided that he should have an operation, from which he is recovering, but this unexpected interruption prevented him from having his usual report ready.

For the finance committee Mr. Cozzens made the following report:

	Appropriation	Expenditures
Supervision	$4475.00	$1577.45
Elementary	44545.00	16157.21
Grammar	45284.84	15056.63

Totals	129904.01	53714.33
Other receipts	2725.78
Total receipts	132629.78
Expenditures	63541.33

For the committee on teachers Rev. Dr. Porter made the following recommendation, which was approved by the full committee:

Your committee on teachers respectfully recommend that Miss Elizabeth B. Peckham, who is absent on account of illness, be paid one third of her salary from April 29 to June 19, 1914.

For the committee on text-books and curriculum Miss Hunter presented the following suggestions as to changes in text-books, etc., which were received and under the rules go over to the next meeting:

To the Honorable Public School Committee:

In accordance with the rules and regulations your committee on text-books and curriculum hereby give notice and at the next regular meeting they will recommend the following additions and exchanges:

Additions—"The Congdon Music Reader," No. 3, for grade III; "Commercial Correspondence," Alamaler, Macmillan Company, for the Rogers; "Practical Physics," Black and Davis, Macmillan Company for advanced Physics in Rogers; The extension of the use of the "First Book in German," Bagster-Collins, adopted June, 1913, for grade XI to grade XII.

Exchanges for the Rogers—"Cicero's Orations" Tunstall, D. C. Heath & Co., in place of a similar book published by Ginn & Co.; "Shorter French Course," Fraser and Squair, D. C. Heath & Co., in place of a similar book published by the American Book Company; "Elementary Chemistry," Alexander Smith, the Century Company, in place of a similar book published by Allyn & Bacon; "German Composition," Bacon, Allyn & Bacon, in place of a similar book published by D. C. Heath & Co.

For the same committee Miss Hunter presented the following report on the proposed change in curriculum:

To the Honorable Public School Committee:

The following recommendations are respectfully submitted by your committee on text-books and curriculum:

First—That, in accordance with the custom of practically the whole country, an eight-grade system for the elementary schools shall be established, by eliminating the ninth grade.

Second—That, for the school year 1914-1915, the children now in the kindergartens who have attended at least two thirds of the session be promoted to grade I, but no other children shall enter grade I until they are six years old. This age is the standard for eight-grade systems.

Third—That, after the opening of schools next September, the pupils of the elementary schools shall be divided in each room into at least two divisions, so that semi-annual promotions may be made as soon as the school accommodations permit.

Fourth—That the superintendent shall be authorized to arrange for a gradual change in the curriculum and in the grades so that a beginning may be made next September—with the understanding, however, that the reorganization will probably require two years.

Fifth—That next September the entering class of the Rogers be offered a course of six periods (with a diploma value of three points) in household arts. The intent is that in September, 1915, this course shall be extended to the next higher grade.

Sixth—That the new building to replace the Clarke school shall be planned for manual work and household arts for the higher grammar grades. The accommodations in the Townsend Industrial are insufficient to meet the present demands, and when the same opportunities are offered the girls in the Rogers that are now given the boys the accommodations will be even more limited.

Mr. Sullivan thought the report should go over a month, to give opportunity to digest it. Mr. Cozzens though the regular course would be first to receive the report. This of course appealed to all as being right.

Miss Hunter said that there was nothing hurried about the report. It had been under consideration about two years and would have been in earlier this year but for some changes in the committee which delayed matters.

Superintendent Lull also said there was nothing new in the case: it had been before the committee for a long time, as Miss Hunter had said. There is no need of rush, except in regard to the high school course. The copy for this course is now in the hands of the printer and is held until action is taken on this report. This is given to each pupil about to graduate from the grammar schools to select the studies decided upon by pupils and parents, and to have this new schedule in the printed program for next year it would be necessary to take action on the fifth section, referring to the high school course.

Mr. Sullivan thought provision should be made to give the pupils what hey need. In New York and other places, if a boy is not to go to college but has some other occupation in mind, he is given an opportunity to take studies which will be of use to him. Mr. Peckham said that was just the idea which the speaker at the recent meeting had advocated. Mr. Sullivan had not heard the lecture.

Mr. Sullivan called attention to the rule that a grammar school education is a necessity for taking a shorthand course. He believed those who had not this could learn it with the shorthand. He cited the fact that there are a number of these schools doing what he believed the city should do and one has 42 pupils.

Mr. Covell also spoke of the need of changing the transition from the grammar to the high school so that it would not discourage pupils from continuing, owing to the radical change in the work. He believed the new system would work wonders in this line.

Mr. Lull again explained what it is proposed to do in the elective studies for grades VII and VIII.

Finally the board voted to adopt section five and to lay over the rest of the report for the next meeting and have copies of it sent to each member.

Mr. Stevens reported, on the matter of a married woman playing for the exercises in the high school, that the committee did not deem action at the present time necessary.

Mr. Sullivan asked what is being done in regard to the new school building; he thought the committee should know something about this. Mr. Bacheller was called upon, but had nothing to report. However, Mr. Cozzens gave some information.

Then Mr. Lull explained what had been done at the Coggeshall. It is planned to add four full rooms, equipped and finished the same as the present rooms, and in two ells. It was proposed to change the heating system by bringing the boilers close to the south wall and building a new chimney. The present system calls for a long pipe from the boilers to the chimney and it is desired to obviate this. It was found, however, that it would be impracticable to build a chimney on the north side, as planned, for mechanical reasons. It was then decided to place the boilers in the west end and use the old chimney. The addition calls for additional heating and a second boiler is to be put in. The contracts for the work have been given out and are well within the amount available. The committee had asked him for a list of furnishings and this is yet to be prepared.

Mr. Bacheller added a few words, saying the School Committee is to supply one of the boilers, as the old one is worn out.

Mr. Cozzens spoke of the uniform courtesy shown the School Committee members by the aldermen and the desire on the part of the latter board to have everything done just as the School Committee desires it done. In regard to the Clarke school he informed the committee that the prices for the land are too high. One owner had reduced, one had partly done so and one had done nothing. The aldermen had given the owners two weeks in which to think of a reduction and if there is no action the School Committee might be caled upon at its next meeting to do something.

Mr. Covell, regarding the proposed improvement of the library conditions at the Rogers High School, said one room was found in which it was thought shelves could be arranged across doors which are not used. Additional shelf room can thus be provided without interfering with the work, and at the same time relieving the strain on the library. The report was received and the committee authorized to have the changes made.

Superintendent Lull had prepared a plan for the new school year. It does not come up for consideration before the June meeting, but to prepare for it he had two schemes outlined on the wall. The fact that Labor day comes on September 7, the month coming in on Tuesday, and that the usual plan is to begin school the Monday after Labor day, complicates matters. One plan showed school beginning the day after Labor day, September 8; the other the Monday after Labor day. The two plans are as follows:

A	B
Sept. 14-Nov. 20	Sept. 8-Nov. 13
Nov. 23-Feb. 5	Nov. 16-Jan. 29
Feb. 8-April 23	Feb. 1-April 16
April 26-June 25	April 19-June 8

The times to come out are of course standard in either case—October 12, Columbus day; the days for the Rhode Island Institute of Instruction; Thanksgiving, November 26-27; Christmas, December 24 (noon)-January 3; Easter, April 2-11, and Decoration day, May 31.

No action was taken and the committee adjourned.

THE BLIGHT OF BUSINESS.

Lack of Confidence Based on Tariff Reductions and New Banking Laws.

[Boston Transcript.]

From all parts of the country there are murmurings over the condition of business. There is plenty of business that might be done and needs to be done, and thousands are eager to engage in it but are afraid to. Enterprise and capital are impatiently awaiting their opportunity, but over every opening that would ordinarily seem promising there appears to be written: "No thoroughfare."

A writer in the Chicago Daily News groups some good reasons for this comparative stagnation and semi-paralysis. He says that a dependable barometer of business is to be found in the advertisements for "Help wanted." A careful examination of these in the daily papers of 28 leading cities, from the Atlantic to the Missouri river, shows a falling off for the week beginning March 1, 1914, as compared with the corresponding week of 1913, of about 30 per cent. In Philadelphia it is 42 per cent; in Kansas City 40 per cent; in Cincinnati 33 per cent; in Worcester 35 per cent, and so on generally, with the exception of two or three cities in the South and Southwest that show slight gains.

There are many other indications that the volume of business has been reduced to a deplorable if not an alarming extent. According to the figures given by the American Railway Association, upon the first of last January the number of idle freight cars were 188,879, as compared with 17,658 upon the same date in 1913, and on the fifteenth of last month these idlers had increased to 212,859, with more in prospect. What is the cause of this, asks the writer and his answer is, "lack of confidence." This vital lack is based upon tariff reductions, the uncertainty of the new banking laws, continued threats of Congress and the administration to further investigate and legislate, "but most of all has the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the question of the increase of freight rates unsettled business and destroyed confidence."

CONDITION STILL SERIOUS.

Jacob Riis Better After Collapse Yesterday on Way to Barre.

BARRE, Mass., May 11.—A marked improvement was reported today in the condition of Jacob A. Riis, who collapsed yesterday while on his way from a sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich., to his summer home here. Mrs. Riis said that her husband was much better today and in no immediate danger, although his condition was considered serious. The journey from Michigan, she said, proved too much of a strain on his weakened heart.

A WASHINGTON REPORTER.

First Lieutenant Maigne Arrested on Returning to Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—First Lieutenant Charles M. Maigne, U. S. A., retired who went through the Mexican lines at Vera Cruz in the capacity of correspondent for a Washington paper was arrested on returning to Vera Cruz. Advice of his arrest reached the War Department from General Funston.

WEAK FROM HUNGER STRIKE.

Mary Wood, Militant, Temporarily Released from Prison.

LONDON, May 11.—Mrs. Mary Wood, the militant suffragette who May 4 mutilated the portrait of Henry James, the novelist, by John Singer Sargent, the American artist in the Royal Academy, was temporarily released from prison today. She is in a very weak condition from the effects of a hunger and thirst strike.

DIRECTED FIRE FROM THE AIR.

French Aviator Tazza Principal in Victory Over Moors at Teza.

FEZ, Morocco, May 11.—Tazza, a French military aviator, was one of the principal factors in yesterday's victory of the French troops over the Moors at Teza, which gave the French command of the key to the eastern approaches to Fez. The airman flew back and forth over the Moorish positions, and from the air directed the fire of the French artillery. At the same time he dropped a number of bombs among the Moors, who eventually became demoralized and fled, leaving many dead on the field.

A "CURE"? FOR BALDNESS

The above expression is one which is used frequently in connection with hair preparations. Just exactly what is meant by it in each instance is a question. Baldness is not a disease and hence, does not permit of a cure. It is a result invariably to be traced to the dandruff germ and if the condition has become chronic, that is, if there is complete atrophy of the hair follicles, a "cure" is absolutely impossible.

Approaching baldness, seen in falling hair, may always be checked and if the hair follicles are not atrophied the hair may be induced again to grow.

This is accomplished by regular applications of Newbro's Herpicide which cleanses the scalp and kills the dandruff germ. The destruction of the germ does away with the accumulations of scarf skin and thus eliminates the most common enemy to beautiful hair.

Soft, glossy, fluffy hair cannot grow on a scalp infested with dandruff any more than a delicate plant can grow on an ash heap. The scalp must be kept clean and free from dandruff. The best remedy for doing this is Newbro's Herpicide which receives the highest endorsements from professional men, the stage and the best people everywhere.

Herpicide is sold and guaranteed in one dollar size bottles by all druggists. Applications obtained at all first-class barber shops and hair dressing parlors.

HOW ACTRESSES REMOVE SUPERFLUOUS HAIR

They Use El Rado—the Safe Liquid Hair Remover.

The methods used by actresses to remove unsightly hair growths are valuable for other women to learn—women who have long been embarrassed by growths on lip, chin, face, neck or arms.

The most generally used preparation is El Rado, a scientifically prepared liquid. A few drops, a simple application, and instantly the hair vanishes. El Rado dissolves it as your coffee dissolves sugar. Medical science knows of no chemical treatment which will eradicate hair permanently without serious injury, but it is an established scientific fact that El Rado will remove hair for a very long time, and in a perfectly safe, simple and thorough manner. When the hair finally reappears it is finer instead of coarser, and with a few drops it can instantly be removed again for a still longer period.

Is there a beauty preparation in the world that can improve one's appearance better than the successful removal of an unsightly hair-growth? The fact that many physicians use the ingredients in El Rado for exactly the same purpose,—hair removing—proves how absolutely harmless its action is. The skin is left smooth and velvety, even whiter than before, because of the soothing, antiseptic properties.

El Rado is used by thousands of women everywhere, in every station of life as an indispensable toilet necessity. You need have no more hesitation in asking for it at your druggist's than in calling for a toilet powder. Get a 50c. or $1.00 size bottle to-day. Try it on your arm; prove for yourself it will do everything claimed. Your money back if you are not pleased with the result. If inconvenient to call at your druggist's it will be all right to order direct from the Pilgrim Mfg. Co., New York. Full information sent on request.

In this city El-Rado is sold and recommended by: Downing Bros.; Wm. Leys Dry Goods Co; The Bee Hive; The King McLeod Co. Kulkman Pharmacy, Inc.

And have you "acid mouth," you ask? Unless you're one of five out of one hundred. Why? Because authorities find that 95% of us have this acid result of fermenting food particles.

Pebeco Tooth Paste

overcomes "acid mouth." It counteracts its attacks on the thin, precious enamel of the teeth. It is a great help to you in preserving this intact, and so preserves the soft, inside tooth-substance from the bacteria of decay.

Pebeco doesn't stop at tooth-saving. It's just as good at cleansing, whitening and restoring the naturally brilliant, lustrous surface that all well-kept teeth ought to have. Try it.

"BALD JACK" ROSE STAR WITNESS AT THE TRIAL.

up Rose, Harry Vallon and Sam Schepps.

"We went to Forty-Second street and Broadway, then to Bridgie Webber's poker rooms at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue," said the witness. "At Fourteenth street and Seventh avenue we picked up another man and returned to Webber's poker rooms, where the occupants of the car got out. Fifteen minutes later 'Dago Frank' 'Gyp the Blood,' 'Whitey Lewis' and 'Lefty Louie' came out and I was ordered to go to the Metropolitan Hotel.

"At the Metropole," the witness said, " 'Dago Frank' ordered me to turn the car around so it would face toward Sixth avenue."

Becker's counsel objected to the line of questioning and it was overruled.

"I turned the car around," Shapiro went on, "and the four men got out and went to the other side of the street. I remained on the box of my machine. In the 15 minutes I heard a shot and four more. I looked toward the Metropole and saw a man fall. I started my machine. I was going to get away from there. I had gone about 50 feet when the four men caught up with me and jumped on the machine.

"I heard 'Whitey' say," Shapiro said, " 'make the chauffeur turn around and wait. The cops are all fixed. Everything is all right.' Then he said: 'Becker has fixed 'em.'

"After the murder I took the four men to One Hundred and Twenty Sixth street and Lenox avenue, where they left me. I then drove back to the Cafe Boulevard."

"Where were you last night?" asked the district attorney.

"In your house," answered Shapiro.

"How much money have you received from my office?"

"Fifty dollars."

On cross-examination Shapiro said that $50 had been used to pay his expenses out of the city.

Mr. Manton read a copy of the testimony which Shapiro offered at the trial of the gun men. In that Shapiro said: "Frank said everything is all right; Becker told me so." Shapiro said he could not remember just what he had testified to at the first trial. He insisted that the substance of the testimony was the same.

The defense read an affidavit sworn to by a keeper in the Tombs, quoting Shapiro as having told the keeper that Harry Vallon and "Bridgie" Webber had jumped into the murder car in front of the Metropole, and threatened to "blow his roof off" unless he drove away from the place. Shapiro denied having made such a statement. He denied further that while in the Tombs he said Vallon had hit him with a gun. He said an attempt had been made to induce him to swear that Webber and Vallon, not the gun men, were in the car, but he had refused.

Jack Rose took the stand and gave his occupation as a lecturer and writer. He appeared entirely composed and spoke without hesitation, even letting his eyes rest directly on Becker. Neither man changed expression.

MONTANA DELAYED.

Cruiser Bearing New England Dead Runs Into Northeast Gale.

BOSTON, May 12.—Cruiser Montana, due to arrive today with the bodies of the three New England men who fell during the occupation of Vera Cruz, ran into a stiff northeast gale off the Nantucket lightship early today, which considerably delayed her in the run around Cape Cod. The navy yard radio station had been unable to communicate with the vessel, but it was stated that, as she was not up to Boston lightship at noon, the ebb tide this afternoon would prevent her docking before noon tomorrow.

It was arranged that after simple ceremonies the body of Corporal Daniel A. Haggerty should be taken to his home in Cambridge, and those of Private Rufus E. Percy of Concord, N. H., and Seaman Walter L. Watson of Orleans sent by train to those points.

Haggerty's body will lie in state at the armory in Cambridge and funeral services, with an elaborate procession, will be held Thursday.

WILL BE SENT TO SWANTON.

No Demonstration in Honor of Arrival of Percy's Body.

CONCORD, N. H., May 12.—The body of Rufus E. Percy, U. S. M. C., is to be sent from Boston directly to Swanton Vt. His mother and brother will meet the body here and accompany it to Swanton. The body will not be taken from the train here and there will be no demonstration in its honor.

EIGHT DEAD; THREE INJURED.

Boiler on Old Dominion Liner Jefferson Explodes.

NORFOLK, May 12.—Eight dead and three severely injured was the toll of the explosion of one of the boilers of the Old Dominion liner Jefferson last night, five miles inside Cape Henry. Two of the dead were white firemen, and six were negro firemen and coal passers. The badly injured are Chief Engineer W. L. Portlock, First Assistant Engineer H. M. Smith, both of New York City, and M. Olsen, an oiler.

With the dead and injured the Jefferson arrived in Norfolk early today, later resuming her course. The Jefferson is in command of Captain Theodore Catherine.

The Jefferson is on her way to New York and should arrive there early tomorrow. An inspection will be made at New York to determine the cause of the explosion.

Locomotor Attaxia Responds to Intra-Venous Treatment.

ATLANTIC CITY, May 12.—Locomotor attaxia is responding to intra-venous and intra-spinous treatment, according to the declaration made by Dr. George Draper of New York, before the annual convention of the American Society for the Advancement of Clinical Investigation. Dr. Draper described with charts the progress of experiments upon six pronounced cases in which he declared decided improvement had been noted. The paper provoked an extended discussion. The meeting was preliminary to the convention of the Association of Physicians, which opens today.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 12, Wall Street—The market opened with, Amalgamated Copper 72¾, American Car Foundry 19½, American Locomotive 31⅞, Anaconda 31⅝, Canadian Pacific 192⅝, Central Leather 35¾, Consolidated Gas 131¼, Erie 28¾, Missouri Pacific 17¾, New York Central 92⅝, Reading 166, Rock Island 5, Southern Pacific 91½, Union Pacific 156, United States Steel 59⅝.

Most of the standard stocks opened slightly higher today, but the demand was light and the upward swing attained no force. Few orders were awaiting execution and trading was unusually dull. Missouri Pacific was sold on the announcement, after the close of the plan, of extending the road's notes. After opening a quarter higher, the stock reacted 1⅛ to within a fraction of the recent low level. Weakness of this issue caused a sympathetic shading of prices elsewhere, but recessions were slight. During the first half hour fluctuations were narrow and irregular.

Noon: Prices hovered within half a point of yesterday's close during the morning, except for a few issues affected by specific influences. Weakness of Missouri Pacific and a further rise in Sterling Exchange rates presaging further gold exports, tended to restrict speculation. Efforts to realize on speculative holdings on the slight opening rise disclosed a thin market and prices sagged on light offerings, the ruling quotations of the morning showing small declines. Expectations of an early decision in the freight rate case held up the market, but bulls found it impossible to attract a following. Slow liquidation of Consolidated Gas continued and the price fell to below 130. Bonds were steady. Call money, steady, at 1¾. Mercantile paper 3¼. Exchanges, $24,281,019; balances, $19,177,231.

"We went to Forty-Second street and Broadway, then to Bridgie Webber's poker rooms at Forty-second street and Sixth avenue," said the witness. "At Fourteenth street and Seventh avenue we picked up another man and returned to Webber's poker rooms, where the occupants of the car got out. Fifteen minutes later 'Dago Frank' 'Gyp the Blood,' 'Whitey Lewis' and 'Lefty Louie' came out and I was ordered to go to the Metropolitan Hotel.

"At the Metropole," the witness said, "'Dago Frank' ordered me to turn the car around so it would face toward Sixth avenue."

Becker's counsel objected to the line of questioning and it was overruled.

"I turned the car around," Shapiro went on, "and the four men got out and went to the other side of the street. I remained on the box of my machine. In the 15 minutes I heard a shot and four more. I looked toward the Metropole and saw a man fall. I started my machine. I was going to get away from there. I had gone about 50 feet when the four men caught up with me and jumped on the machine.

"I heard 'Whitey' say," Shapiro said, "'make the chauffeur turn around and wait. The cops are all fixed. Everything is all right.' Then he said: 'Becker has fixed 'em.'

"After the murder I took the four men to One Hundred and Twenty Sixth street and Lenox avenue, where they left me. I then drove back to the Cafe Boulevard."

"Where were you last night?" asked the district attorney.

"In your house," answered Shapiro.

"How much money have you received from my office?"

"Fifty dollars."

On cross-examination Shapiro said that $50 had been used to pay his expenses out of the city.

Mr. Manton read a copy of the testimony which Shapiro offered at the trial of the gun men. In that Shapiro said: "Frank said everything is all right; Becker told me so." Shapiro said he could not remember just what he had testified to at the first trial. He insisted that the substance of the testimony was the same.

The defense read an affidavit sworn to by a keeper in the Tombs, quoting Shapiro as having told the keeper that Harry Vallon and "Bridgie" Webber had jumped into the murder car in front of the Metropole, and threatened to "blow his roof off" unless he drove away from the place. Shapiro denied having made such a statement. He denied further that while in the Tombs he said Vallon had hit him with a gun. He said an attempt had been made to induce him to swear that Webber and Vallon, not the gun men, were in the car, but he had refused.

Jack Rose took the stand and gave his occupation as a lecturer and writer. He appeared entirely composed and spoke without hesitation, even letting his eyes rest directly on Becker. Neither man changed expression.

MONTANA DELAYED.

BOSTON, May 12.—Cruiser Montana, due to arrive today with the bodies of the three New England men who fell during the occupation of Vera Cruz, ran into a stiff northeast gale off the Nantucket lightship early today, which considerably delayed her in the run around Cape Cod. The navy yard radio station had been unable to communicate with the vessel, but it was stated that, as she was not up to Boston lightship at noon, the ebb tide this afternoon would prevent her docking before noon tomorrow.

It was arranged that after simple ceremonies the body of Corporal Daniel A. Haggerty should be taken to his home in Cambridge, and those of Private Rufus E. Percy of Concord, N. H., and Seaman Walter L. Watson of Orleans sent by train to those points.

Haggerty's body will lie in state at the armory in Cambridge and funeral services, with an elaborate procession, will be held Thursday.

WILL BE SENT TO SWANTON.

No Demonstration in Honor of Arrival of Percy's Body.

CONCORD, N. H., May 12.—The body of Rufus E. Percy, U. S. M. C., is to be sent from Boston directly to Swanton Vt. His mother and brother will meet the body here and accompany it to Swanton. The body will not be taken from the train here and there will be no demonstration in its honor.

EIGHT DEAD; THREE INJURED.

Boiler on Old Dominion Liner Jefferson Explodes.

NORFOLK, May 12.—Eight dead and three severely injured was the toll of the explosion of one of the boilers of the Old Dominion liner Jefferson last night, five miles inside Cape Henry. Two of the dead were white firemen, and six were negro firemen and coal passers. The badly injured are Chief Engineer W. L. Portlock, First Assistant Engineer H. M. Smith, both of New York City, and M. Olsen, an oiler.

With the dead and injured the Jefferson arrived in Norfolk early today, later resuming her course. The Jefferson is in command of Captain Theodore Catherine.

The Jefferson is on her way to New York and should arrive there early tomorrow. An inspection will be made at New York to determine the cause of the explosion.

Dr. Draper described with charts the progress of experiments upon six pronounced cases in which he declared decided improvement had been noted. The paper provoked an extended discussion. The meeting was preliminary to the convention of the Association of Physicians, which opens today.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 12, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 72⅞, American Car Foundry 49¾, American Locomotive 31⅞, Anaconda 31⅝; Canadian Pacific 192⅜, Central Leather 35½, Consolidated Gas 131½, Erie 28⅞. Missouri Pacific 17⅜, New York Central 92⅞, Reading 166, Rock Island 5, Southern Pacific 91½, Union Pacific 156, United States Steel 59⅝.

Most of the standard stocks opened slightly higher today, but the demand was light and the upward swing attained no force. Few orders were awaiting execution and trading was unusually dull. Missouri Pacific was sold on the announcement, after the close of the plan, of extending the road's notes. After opening a quarter higher, the stock reacted 1⅝ to within a fraction of the recent low level. Weakness of this issue caused a sympathetic shading of prices elsewhere, but recessions were slight. During the first half hour fluctuations were narrow and irregular.

Noon—Prices hovered within half a point of yesterday's close during the morning, except for a few issues affected by specific influences. Weakness of Missouri Pacific and a further rise in Sterling Exchange rates, presaging farther gold exports, tended to restrict speculation. Efforts to realize on speculative holdings on the slight opening rise disclosed a thin market and prices sagged on light offerings, the ruling quotations of the morning showing small declines. Expectations of an early decision in the freight rate case held up the market, but bulls found it impossible to attract a following. Slow liquidation of Consolidated Gas continued and the price fell to below 130. Bonds were steady. Call money, steady, at 1⅞. Mercantile paper 3½. Exchanges, $24-[illegible]; balances, $[illegible].

ALL BILLS SIGNED.

Over-Appropriation of General Assembly May Not Cause a Deficit.

Governor Pothier Monday completed the signing of the bills passed by the legislature. He was several days behind the enacting body, but apparently some one was so vitally interested in the additional summer liquor license act for Newport that it did not follow the usual channel and was pushed forward so that it would be signed before there could be a chance to demand a veto. It does not appear that the governor exercised the right to veto this year, and in the last batch before him signed all the bills according to report.

According to figures given out at the State House, the General Assembly, at its session just closed, appropriated $70,000 more than the estimated net income of the state. Notwithstanding this fact, however, General Treasurer Read says there will be no deficit, as the sum can be made up from the unexpended balances which will be available for the purpose.

According to these figures the estimated income for the year 1914 was $2,880,000, and this was increased by $41,000 additional revenue secured from legislative and other sources. Later, however, $46,000 of this amount was lost through the passage of the bill exempting certain bank securities from taxation, leaving an estimated net income of $2,875,000.

The expenditures consisted of the appropriation bill amounting to $2,335,000, plus $325,000 appropriated in other bills passed by the General Assembly. This amount added to $285,000, the amount of the unexpended balances, gives an over-appropriation of $70,000.

It has been figured for years past that it is safe to estimate that one third the amount of unexpended balances will not be used and will be available. Upon this basis the general treasurer will have $88,500 from unexpended balances which may be used to meet the $70,000 over-appropriation made by the General Assembly. This would leave a margin of safety of $18,500, and General Treasurer Read believes this will be sufficient to prevent a deficit for the year 1914.

NEWPORTER WINS PRIZE.

Mr. Frank Morgan, Jr., Eligible for Entrance to Naval Academy.

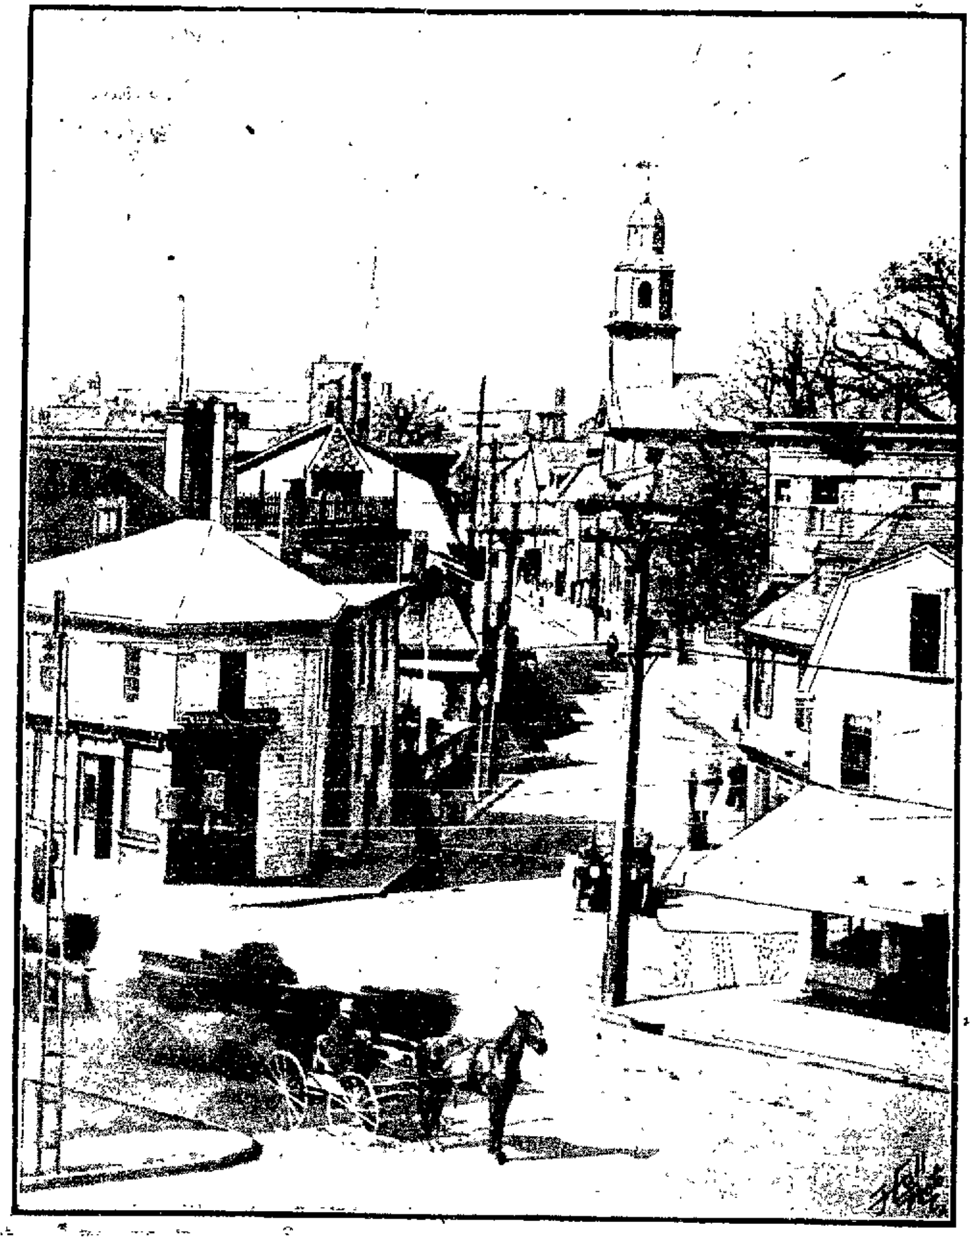
Mr. Frank Morgan, Jr., of this city was notified Monday afternoon by the Navy Department that he had passed his entrance examinations to the Naval Academy by a large margin. He has been studying at the Leonard School for Annapolis in New York, since last November, and took his examinations in Newark, N. J., April 21. He passed his physical examination in February at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Previous to his appointment to the Naval Academy, Mr. Morgan was in the employ of Messrs. Sheffield & Harvey of this city. He received his appointment last fall from Senator LeBaron B. Colt. In his entrance examinations he obtained one of the highest averages ever received by Rhode Islanders, his percentage being 92. He has worked hard to gain this coveted prize, and while at a preparatory school in New York studied diligently. He will enter the Academy in September, the principal, a young man from Bristol, entering in June.

A BLOCK OF CEMENT.

New Concrete Float for Government Landing Launched.

There was a launching at the Naval fuel station at Bradford Monday evening, and what some call a block of cement is afloat. Started last September, the new concrete float for the Government Landing was put overboard at 8.45 o'clock. There have been many reports that the launching would take place "next week," but that time did not arrive until Monday night. Such a construction requires much time and trouble, but its long life after completion is expected to repay the government for the effort. It will not rust or rot. After the concrete had been poured into the form it had to be given time to season, and then came a series of tests to prove its stability and non-leaking properties before it was put overboard. It is at present tied at the dock at the station up the bay.



A BIT OF OLD NEWPORT.

To one who may have returned home after an absence of 25 or 50 years it is natural to note many changes, be that home Newport or some other place; still, changes do not seem to take place so fast here as in many cities. In the view shown perhaps one looking with the eye of a quarter of a century ago would note few changes, and again if one were to look backward half a century he would also note but few changes. There would then of course have been no automobile in the picture, no wireless tower on the Torpedo Station, no big stack or outline of the Torpedo store house at the same place, and a few other details but in the main the picture is much the same as it would have been since the memory of most men runneth not to the contrary.

Lest one should fail to recognize this picturesque grouping it may be stated that the photograph was taken recently from a window in the City Hall and is looking down Marlborough street.

CAN BE ENJOYED BY ALL.

"In The Bishop's Carriage" Has Many Appealing Situations.

The Malley-Denison Company, opening another week at the Opera House Monday evening, presented Channing Pollock's "In the Bishop's Carriage," and the members showed by their excellent acting that they are capable of producing a wide variety of plays. In fact the company, always good, is showing diversity and ability as the season advances.

"In the Bishop's Carriage" is a play which can be enjoyed by all, with strong character delineations and appealing situations. It was presented with special scenery for each of the four acts, the Ramsey home in the suburbs of Philadelphia in the first being particularly elaborate and realistic.

The company was especially well cast. Miss Shirley portrays the character of Nance Olden, the girl thief, and shows a steady advance in her art. Her scenes in the second act, when Lattimer tries to induce her to leave her old ways and her old companions, and in the third and fourth acts, were unusually well done, showing a force and reserve which had been only hinted at in her other characters. It is a part which gives excellent opportunities and Miss Shirley makes the most of them.

Mr. Crane as William Lattimer does a fine piece of acting, he too showing a good reserve of dramatic force. Neil Barrett as Tom Dorgan, the thief, has one of the most forcible characters he has ever portrayed here and showed much versatility and steadily improving dramatic ability. Mollie Calvert, who has become a favorite with Newport audiences in the short time she has been with the company, gave a capable piece of character acting as Mag Monaghan, Nance's friend and servant. Sophie Allen as Nellie Ramsey and Janette Cass as Mrs. Ramsey had minor parts, of which they gave pleasing interpretations.

Houston Richards as the jubilant old roue, Edward Ramsey, made a decided hit, his portrayal of the drunken man being one of the best things he has done in Newport. James Moore as Frederick Obermuller, Richard Clarke as the bishop and as the police sergeant, Frank Bennett as Burnett, the butler, and as Harry Van Ness; Frank Quimby as Forbes and Officer Jackson, and Leonard Lewis as the detective, made these minor parts essential features of the dramatic action. In every particular the performance was worth seeing.

TROJANS SCORE SUCCESS.

Latest Music Rendered at Base Ball Club's Fourth Annual Ball.

To the strains of Knowe's orchestra, which rendered the latest music, the Trojan base ball club gave its fourth annual ball Monday night, a gathering the size of which is seldom seen in Realty hall, being present. The members of the team took great pains with the decorations, and as in former years scored a big success. Included among the innovations were the tango and the one step.

Along the walls were numerous American flags, so arranged as to give the appearance of shields. From the central chandelier to the walls were alternating bands of red and blue streamers, which produced a pretty effect. The orchestra was partially hidden by palms. The program for the dancing, which lasted from 8 until 12 o'clock, included 18 dances, many of which were encored more than the usual number of times.

VISITING ODD FELLOWS.

Pacific Lodge of New Bedford Works First Degree on a Dozen Men.

Rhode Island Lodge of Odd Fellows received a visit Monday evening from Pacific Lodge of New Bedford, Ralph M. Crocker, noble grand, which sent a delegation of 100 members with its degree team. They came by special cars and wore red hats and special badges. There was a large attendance of Odd Fellows in the hall, considerably more than 200, representing Rhode Island and Excelsior lodges of this city and Oakland Lodge of Portsmouth in addition to the visitors.

The degree team of Pacific Lodge, under the direction of Past Grand Charles T. Allen, worked the first degree on 12 candidates, nine of whom were presented by Rhode Island, two by Excelsior and one by Pacific Lodge. After the formal work supper was served in the dining room and before the departure of the visitors a quartet from Pacific Lodge sang a number of selections, to the pleasure of all.

FOR DEAD BLUEJACKETS.

Memorial Service Held at the Army and Navy Y. M. C. A Building.

Monday afternoon, while exercises were being held at the Brooklyn navy yard over the bodies of the sailors and marines killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz, a memorial service was held in the members' room at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association. At the front of the room was a blackboard, over which two American flags were draped and caught back with wide ribbons of black and white and on which were the names of the 19 dead marines and sailors.

Several hymns were sung, with Mr. E. Toll, accompanying on the piano. Mr J. D. Sutherland read appropriate Scripture selections and Mr. F. A. Sharwell offered prayer. Mr Sutherland spoke briefly and the names of the heroes were read, every one in the room standing at attention as the latter part of the exercises was performed. The service closed with the singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

After the service the blackboard with the names was placed before the large open window opening on to Washington square and attracted widespread attention from passing pedestrians many of whom stopped to read the names. The blackboard was placed in the main lobby during the evening. The flag on the building was at half-staff during the day.

PRECEDES CLEAN-UP WEEK.

Professor Farwell to Give Valuable Lecture on Civic Betterment.

Professor Parris T. Farwell, who is to speak at the Rogers High School Friday evening under the auspices of the Clean City Committee, in preparation for the Clean-Up Week beginning next Monday, has frequently been heard before improvement societies in Massachusetts on civic betterment. The Dedham, Mass., Transcript, writing of a recent lecture by Mr. Farwell, says:

"The light shining out across the darkness, from the windows of the Ames School Hall, on the evening of Professor Paris T. Farwell's illustrated lecture, given recently before the Dedham Improvement League, might well typify the light that poured into the minds of those who gathered to enjoy the notable evening. Oh, if every soul in Dedham could only have heard and seen it all. This was the chorus of the departing audience. And, indeed, one longed for just such a wholesale eye-opener, in this town of glorious possibilities. Picture after picture flashed upon the screen, showing the beauty of those towns in our state where this movement has been longest and most ardently followed."

TROJANS EXPECT TO BE BETTER SUNDAY.

Sunday when the Trojans play the Collegians of Providence, a good game should be the result. The boys are offering no excuses for their work last Sunday, as they feel that they had all the bad breaks and realize that they sandwiched in a lot of poor playing with those. Every one knows the Trojans are capable of putting up a better article of base ball than they showed against the Grandfields and the team is awaiting the opportunity to prove this. All teams have bad days and the Trojans certainly had one last Sunday.

EIGHT-YEAR COURSE FAVORED.

Committee Receives Announcement of Offer of Citizens to Equip the Dental Clinic.

The School Committee held its monthly meeting, its fifth, Monday evening, all the members being present except Dr. Barker, who is still unable to be out nights, and Dr. Darrah, who was attending the meeting of the Recreation Commission.

The committee on curriculum, which has had in charge the matter of a change, made a report favoring the adoption of the eight-year plan, as suggested by Dr. Snedden in his address April 21. This will give an eight-year course up to the high school, in place of the present nine-year course; will give semi-annual promotions and provide for optional studies in the last two years of the grammar grades, so that the transition from the grammar to the high school will be easier. The committee voted to adopt this so far as the studies for the high school for next year is concerned, and to lay over the rest of the plan until the next meeting, in June, when it is believed the members will have had a better opportunity to digest it. The committee seemed in favor of the plan, but wished more time to consider it.

The superintendent reported that he had been informed that a citizen, whose name was unknown to him, had offered to equip the dental clinic which the Board of Health now provides for the examination and partial treatment of the teeth of the school children. It was only a preliminary announcement and more details are looked for later.

There was no report from Truant Officer Topham, who is ill, but there was a report on the progress of the plans, etc., for the new school building and addition. This was drawn out but was satisfactory and illuminating and the members now understand the situation as they did not before.

Superintendent Lull read his monthly report, which was as follows:

To the Honorable Public School Committee:

The total enrollment for four weeks ending Friday, April 24, 1914, was 3832, the average belonging 3500.6, the average number attending 3261.6, the percent of attendance 93.1, cases of tardiness 237 and the cases of dismissal 87. The total enrollment, 3832, shows an increase of 24 over April, of 246 over last September, and of 67 over April of 1913.

The rank of attendance and tardiness was as follows:

Rank	Attendance	Tardiness
1	Parish	Lenthal
2	Rogers	Coggeshall
3	Lenthal	Clarke
4	Callender	Calvert
5	Calvert	Carey
6	Potter	Callender

9	Cranston	Thayer

ALL BILLS SIGNED.

Over-Appropriation of General Assembly May Not Cause a Deficit.

Governor Pothier Monday completed the signing of the bills passed by the legislature. He was several days behind the enacting body, but apparently some one was so vitally interested in the additional summer liquor license act for Newport that it did not follow the usual channel and was pushed forward so that it would be signed before there could be a chance to demand a veto. It does not appear that the governor exercised the right to veto this year, and in the last batch before him signed all the bills according to report.

According to figures given out at the State House, the General Assembly, at its session just closed, appropriated $70,000 more than the estimated net income of the state. Notwithstanding this fact, however, General Treasurer Read says there will be no deficit, as the sum can be made up from the unexpended balances which will be available for the purpose.

According to these figures the estimated income for the year 1914 was $2,880,000, and this was increased by $41,000 additional revenue secured from legislative and other sources. Later, however, $46,000 of this amount was lost through the passage of the bill exempting certain bank securities from taxation, leaving an estimated net income of $2,875,000.

The expenditures consisted of the appropriation bill amounting to $2,335,000, plus $325,000 appropriated in other bills passed by the General Assembly. This amount added to $285,000, the amount of the unexpended balances, gives an over-appropriation of $70,000.

It has been figured for years past that it is safe to estimate that one third the amount of unexpended balances will not be used and will be available. Upon this basis the general treasurer will have $88,500 from unexpended balances which may be used to meet the $70,000 over-appropriation made by the General Assembly. This would leave a margin of safety of $18,500, and General Treasurer Read believes this will be sufficient to prevent a deficit for the year 1914.

NEWPORTER WINS PRIZE.

Mr. Frank Morgan, Jr., Eligible for Entrance to Naval Academy.

Mr. Frank Morgan, Jr., of this city was notified Monday afternoon by the Navy Department that he had passed his entrance examinations to the Naval Academy, by a large margin. He has been studying at the Leonard School for Annapolis in New York, since last November, and took his examinations in Newark, N. J., April 21. He passed his physical examination in February at the Brooklyn navy yard.

Previous to his appointment to the Naval Academy, Mr. Morgan was in the employ of Messrs. Sheffield & Harvey of this city. He received his appointment last fall from Senator LeBaron B. Colt. In his entrance examinations he obtained one of the highest averages ever received by Rhode Islanders, his percentage being 92. He has worked hard to gain this coveted prize, and while at a preparatory school in New York studied diligently. He will enter the Academy in September, the principal, a young man from Bristol, entering in June.

EIGHT-YEAR COURSE FAVORED.

Committee Receives Announcement of Offer of Citizens to Equip the Dental Clinic.

The School Committee held its monthly meeting, its fifth, Monday evening, all the members being present except Dr. Barker, who is still unable to be out nights, and Dr. Darrah, who was attending the meeting of the Recreation Commission.

The committee on curriculum, which has had in charge the matter of a change, made a report favoring the adoption of the eight-year plan, as suggested by Dr. Snedden in his address April 21. This will give an eight-year course up to the high school, in place of the present nine-year course; will give semi-annual promotions and provide for optional studies in the last two years of the grammar grades, so that the transition from the grammar to the high school will be easier. The committee voted to adopt this so far as the studies for the high school for next year is concerned, and to lay over the rest of the plan until the next meeting, in June, when it is believed the members will have had a better opportunity to digest it. The committee seemed in favor of the plan, but wished more time to consider it.

The superintendent reported that he had been informed that a citizen, whose name was unknown to him, had offered to equip the dental clinic which the Board of Health now provides for the examination and partial treatment of the teeth of the school children. It was only a preliminary announcement and more details are looked for later.

There was no report from Truant Officer Topham, who is ill, but there was a report on the progress of the plans, etc., for the new school building and addition. This was drawn out but was satisfactory and illuminating and the members now understand the situation as they did not before.

Superintendent Lull read his monthly report, which was as follows:

To the Honorable Public School Committee:

The total enrollment for four weeks ending Friday, April 24, 1914, was 3832, the average belonging 3500.6, the average number attending 3261.6, the percent of attendance 93.1, cases of tardiness 257 and the cases of dismissal 87. The total enrollment, 3832, shows an increase of 24 over April, of 246 over last September, and of 67 over April of 1913.

The rank of attendance and tardiness was as follows:

Rank	Attendance	Tardiness
1	Parish	Lenthal
2	Rogers	Coggeshall

4	Callender	Calvert
5	Calvert	Carey

Board of Health.
